Lord Mayor of Cork, Ireland, Died In Brixton Prison Today After Hunger Strike of 73 Days

Death Ends Longest Fast on Record—Had Been Unconscious for 36 Hours and Did Not Recover Faculties Before He Died—Chaplain and Brother at Bedside—Prison Officials Refused to Permit Brother to Call Other Relatives—Review of Case

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(By Associated Press) Terrence MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, died at Brixton prison, this city, at 6.45 o'clock this morning. His death followed a hunger strike of more than 73 days, eclipsing any in the annals of the medical world.

Unconscious Several Days

MacSwiney, who had been unconscious for several days, did not recover his faculties before he died. Father Dominic, his private chaplain and his brother, John MacSwiney, were with him when he died. Father Dominic was at the prison all night and did not leave until several hours after MacSwiney breathed his last.

John MacSwiney and the chaplain, who had been waiting downstairs in the prison, were told by the prison officials at 4.35 o'clock that they should go to the mayor's bedside, as they thought death was approaching. The brother asked for the privilege of communicating with other relatives who were present, but the officials, it is said, refused him the use of a telephone.

Chaplain and Brother Detained

After the prisoner's death, his brother and the chaplain were not permitted to leave Brixton prison until 6.15 o'clock. John MacSwiney conveyed word to the widow of the Lord Mayor, who was staying at a West End hotel with Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien, the former being the London executive of the Irish Self-Determination League.

Mrs. MacSwiney, accompanied by her parents and the Misses Annie and Mary MacSwiney, sisters of the Lord Mayor, arrived at Brixton prison at 9.30 o'clock.

News of MacSwiney's death had not become known in the district around Brixton prison until after 9 o'clock.

An unusual large contingent of police was on duty inside the prison grounds to prevent any demonstration, but outside along the road leading to the main highway, there were no unusual signs of activity. No civilians were waiting there as they usually did in the early days of the Lord Mayor's hunger strike. Arrangements are being made to take the body to Ireland for burial.

Heart Failure Cause of Death

The cause of death was heart failure, according to a statement issued at the home office.

MacSwiney was unconscious for 36 hours before his death occurred, it is stated. Father Dominic, therefore, was unable to give him communion, but he administered Extreme Unction, it was expected an Inquest would be held at the prison today, after which

NO TENNIS COURT AT FORT HILL

Residents Enter Vigorous Protest Against Court Location as Proposed

Miss Parsons of Rogers Hall Says it Would Interfere With School Work

The people in the vicinity of Fort Hill park are up in arms against a proposition of the park department to lay out a tennis court on the most beautiful part of the lower park in front of the Moody grammar and Rogers Hall schools. What induced the department to reach this decision is not known.

The people in the neighborhood did not believe the report until they saw the stakes driven outlining the new tennis court.

Everybody then began to ask who wants the tennis court in that vicinity.

The opinion was expressed that it was for the accommodation of the girls of the Rogers Hall school.

Miss Parsons, principal of the school, when queried in reference to the matter today, said she "would be very sorry to see the beautiful park that cost so much to lay out and disfigure by the construction there of a tennis court." "If there is a demand for a tennis court," she said, "why not locate it out at Shedd park where an area of 55 acres of land donated for park purposes awaits development and is largely still in its natural wilderness."

"So far from favoring the tennis court in front of this school and the Moody, I feel that such an attraction there would be injurious to the work of both schools. We have a tennis court on the school grounds that is used by our students during recreation hours, but in the time set apart for study we do not want any cause of distraction such as tennis court at our doors would undoubtedly bring."

It is understood that residents in the vicinity of the park have sent a strong protest to the park board against the proposed tennis court. One of these said to a Sun representative today: "I wonder what has changed the policy of the park board in regard to this park as during the past two years even boys were forbidden to walk or sit on the grass."

"To turn it into a public playground would destroy the park and damage property in the vicinity."

The park board, it seems, had better place the tennis court where it belongs and where it will injure nobody out at Shedd park.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE IS DISMISSED

A charge of manslaughter against Andrew D. Moynihan was dismissed in public court this morning by Judge Enright. Moynihan was the driver of the automobile, owned by Richard McCrosson of 69 Temple street which struck Francis Aubrey, six years old, of 55 Lyon street, about 3.15 o'clock on the afternoon of Sept. 18 on the N. Y. N. H. & H. railroad bridge in Lincoln st., inflicting injuries which later resulted in the child's death at St. John's hospital.

The Inquest was held by John J. Pickman, senior special justice of the Lowell court and was attended by Arthur J. Hardy, Esq., inspector of the state highway commission. The report stated that the accident was not due to criminal negligence on the part of Moynihan or any other person or persons.

Could be Dropped Without Modifying Effectiveness of League

M. Bourgeois, President of League Council Gives Interview on Covenant

BRUSSELS, Oct. 25.—Leon Bourgeois, president of the council of the League of Nations, talking to American newspaper correspondents last night, said that Article X was not considered by European statesmen as a vital and essential element of the league covenant.

He said he had been surprised that this article had caused so much emotion in the United States. He stated that it would be eliminated without in any way modifying the effectiveness of the league.

"Article X," he said, "is scarcely more than a moral background to the covenant. It is not considered so important by Europeans as by Americans."

"There is really no sanction, or penalty, in this article. All penalties provided for in the covenant in order to make the league's action effective, are in other articles."

Lawrence Mfg. Co.'s Operatives Refuse to Stand for Wage Reduction

As a result of a reduction in wages, which became operative in the plant of the Lawrence Mfg. Co. today, about 45 women employed in the wetting department of the company and a number of looper, refused to work this morning and went out on strike.

The reduction or as the company officials call it, the readjustment of wages, was announced during the latter part of last week. The announcement caused some uneasiness among the operatives, and this morning when the workers reported to work and found that their wages had been cut down approximately 25 per cent, about 45 of them refused to work and walked out, but not before conferring with the overseer. It is claimed that some of the women employed in the looper department also went out on strike.

When seen this noon, Agent Walker admitted some of the workers and

Several Trump Cards for Campaign's Windup Predicted

EN ROUTE WITH GOVERNOR COX, Oct. 25.—West Virginia today was the field of Governor Cox in opening the last full week of his presidential campaigning. Nine addresses in this so-called "doubtful" state, were on his program today, including a morning speech at Hinton, an afternoon address at Charleston and a night meeting at Huntington.

Several trump cards for the campaign's windup were predicted by the democratic management. The League of Nations issue, however, it was said, would continue to be the chief appeal.

The governor's West Virginia effort today was the second in the state, and followed his speech last Saturday night at New York where he stressed business arguments for the league and for the first time, said that he expected to compromise on reservations.

FOR COURT RULING ON ESCH-CUMMINGS ACT

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The supreme court may be asked to interpret the Esch-Cummings transportation act as a result of the certification to the railway board of a number of wage disputes involving employees of electric railroads.

The board has been hearing arguments for two weeks on the question of whether or not it has jurisdiction under the act over such lines. A decision is not expected before next week. Either side may appeal to the courts if not satisfied with the board's decision, and members predicted today that an appeal would be taken.

Representatives of electric railway employees in several cases now pending before the board argue that the electric lines, as feeders of steam railroads, are part of the steam road systems.

Mayor MacSwiney Dead

Continued

The body would be turned over to relatives.

Officials at the home office withheld comment on the case, aside from saying that every precaution had been taken and every means resorted to, including forcible feeding during the last few days, in an effort to keep the prisoner alive.

Was 40 Years Old

Terence MacSwiney was 40 years old and was one of the most prominent Sinn Féin leaders. He started life as a draper's assistant, but became a poet, author and playwright before taking up politics seriously. Later he became violently anti-English.

While in Wakefield jail, Yorkshire, in 1916, he met Marie Murphy, daughter of a wealthy Cork distiller, who visited the jail, and shortly after they were married, despite much opposition.

Announcement by the home office that heart failure was the cause of death, is considered an indirect answer to the criticisms of Dr. Josiah Oldfield, a physician, and publicist, who declared it was wrong for the lord mayor's doctors to administer meat juice and brandy. He said brandy was a poison and that a man at the point of death was susceptible to poison. He added that when a man fasted a long time, the first food he could endure was fruit juice.

When one of the officials was asked today regarding Mrs. MacSwiney's absence from the bedside when death occurred, he replied that restrictions recently imposed upon the visits of relatives was urged by the attending physicians as vital to the prisoner's own interests.

Crowds Move Toward Prison

As soon as the news of the lord mayor's death spread through the city, small knots of people began moving toward Brixton prison. The police, however, did not allow anyone to enter the street leading to the prison entrance, keeping the people moving so that a crowd would not form. Fears had previously been expressed that the lord mayor's death might cause a demonstration at the prison.

The MacSwiney family arranged for the removal of the body from the prison to St. George's cathedral, in London, as soon as the inquest was ended. The body will lie in state there.

until it is taken, probably on board a special train, to Dublin, where it is planned to place it for a day or two in the Mansion House.

MacSwiney's grave will be alongside that of his official predecessor, Lord Mayor Thomas MacCurran, who was shot in his own home in Cork on March 20. MacSwiney will be the fourth to be buried in this plot, the others being MacCurran, Sheamus McQuirk, who was taken out of bed in his Galway home and shot, and Jeremiah McNeasy, who participated in the Easter rising in Dublin in 1916.

Governmental interference with funeral arrangements is regarded as unlikely. The progress of the funeral party from Dublin to Cork will be marked by a series of services at all the populous centers en route. Final obsequies will be held in Cork cathedral and interment will be made in St. Finbarr's cemetery in Cork. The grave in which MacSwiney will be buried is known as "republican plot," which has been reserved for Irish nationalist soldiers.

The news of Lord Mayor MacSwiney's death, received in private telegrams to his friends, travelled with lightning speed throughout the city. A meeting of the city council was called. The deputy lord mayor announced that he and several other municipal officials would proceed to Brixton prison today.

Widow Visits Cell

A friend of the family who accompanied Mrs. MacSwiney when she visited Brixton prison today said the lord mayor's telegram of Oct. 18 to the Cork hunger strikers with reference to the death of the hunger striker, Michael Fitzgerald in Cork jail in which he referred to Fitzgerald as having died for his country and joined the immortals, characterized the family's attitude.

"Mrs. MacSwiney and the lord mayor's sisters, Annie and Mary who were not present when the body came, entered the cell, kissed the mayor's cheek, knelt silently in prayer a few moments and then left," the friend said. "There was not a tear shed by the mayors, who preserved the same stoical self-possession she has shown throughout the long ordeal."

Guard Against Outbreaks

CORK, Oct. 25. (By Associated Press.)—Feeling intense in possible developments caused by the death of Lord Mayor MacSwiney was mingled today with the grief in which his death has plunged south Ireland. Although the people appear stirred to the highest degree of bitterness, it is regarded as extremely improbable that there will be any outbreaks or disorderly demonstrations in this city.

It is expected, however, there will be considerable extension and intensification of guerrilla warfare against the police and military forces, which, anticipating reprisals, are doubling their vigilance, especially in remote districts.

Cork Jail Guarded

Cork jail, where a number of hunger strikers are in a grave condition, is guarded inside and outside by soldiers equipped with machine guns.

There is an exceptionally large garrison there. It is equipped for contingencies, has a number of tanks and armored cars and is ready for instant service. Military forces are so strong that it is considered imprudent that any attempt at force will be made here.

Grief in Dublin

DUBLIN, Oct. 25.—The news of the death of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork was received here today with expressions of profound grief. It was intended by the city flag as half-mast, but Irish troops were in possession of Mansion House over which the flag usually flies.

Throughout the city there were signs of mourning and prayers for the repose of the soul of the late lord mayor were offered in all the churches.

MacSwiney's hunger strike was begun on August 12 when, with ten of his associates, he was arrested by soldiers in Cork while attending a session of a Sinn Féin court. After trial by a court-martial under the regulations of the Defence of the Realm Act, he was found guilty of seditious conduct and sentenced to two years' imprisonment, which he was serving in Brixton prison in London.

MacSwiney, then an alderman of Cork, was elected Lord Mayor of the city at a special session of the Corporation on March 30 of this year.

He was a well known Sinn Féin leader and, prior to his election, had been deported and imprisoned several times, one of the latest notable instances of his confinement having been in 1916 in connection with the Irish Easter revolt.

When arrested on August 12, MacSwiney managed to escape to the street from the back of the City Hall, which soldiers had surrounded, but was captured outside. He was taken to the military barracks and came up for trial on August 18. The court-martial found him guilty of having control of the secret police cipher, of having in his possession a document likely to cause disaffection, namely, a copy of a resolution of the Cork Corporation.

"TEACH US HOW TO DIE"

BY TERENCE J. MACSWINEY
Late Lord Mayor of Cork

The sublimed poem was written by Terence J. MacSwiney, the late lord mayor of Cork, who has just died in Brixton prison as a result of his hunger strike in protest against the injustice of his imprisonment. His death adds another to the long list of martyrs to Ireland and few indeed ever suffered more for the cause, for his 13 days' fast must have endured unspeakable agony. He was one of the bravest and best young men in Ireland. The patriotic spirit by which he was imbued is well set forth in his own words in the following poem, although it gives but a slight hint of the great sacrifice he made in thus deliberately yielding his young life—leaving his wife and child only a blessed memory and a name that will live in the bright galaxy of young men who have died for Ireland.

God, we enter our last fight;
Thou dost see our cause is right;
Make us march now in Thy sight
On to victory.

Let us not Thy wrath deserve
To the scaffold we serve;
Let us not from danger swerve;
Teach us how to die.

Death for some is in reserve
Before our flags can fly.

All the agony of years,
All the horrors, all the fears,
Martyrs' blood, survivors' tears,
Now we offer Thee.

As an endless holocaust
For the freedom we have lost,
God restore it though the cost
Greater still must be.

Let Thy grace attend our host,
Give us victory.

See, we open our own hearts;
Every wound that in them smarts,
Every secret pain that starts,
Offer, Lord, to Thee.

Every dearest hope's decrease,
Every fear that rocks our peace,
Every cross with pain's increase,
Endured though we be;

Sacrifice that shall not cease
Till our land be free.

Thou hast freedom in Thy hand;
Thou canst liberate our land;
Hear us, Lord, our one demand—
Ireland's liberty.

We ask not her chains to rive
And the sacred deed survive,
That we may rejoice alive,
In her victory.

We but ask that she shall thrive,
And rest our fate with Thee.

We know not what must befall
Marching at our side's call;
Make us strong who must yield all
That she may not die.

Those who will survive the fight,
Still attend them with Thy light;
Thou, our hope in darkest night,
Thou, our Guardian.

And hold our dear land in Thy sight
Erect, firm and free.

tion pledging allegiance to the Da.1 Eireann, the Irish republican parliament, and of having made a seditious speech on the occasion of his election.

Already weak at the trial because of his refusal to take the oath, MacSwiney, the jurisdiction of the court, saying: "I am the lord mayor of this city and its chief magistrate. I declare this court illegal and those taking part in it liable to arrest under the laws of the Irish republic."

The day following his trial, Lord Mayor MacSwiney was deported to England aboard a destroyer, under a heavy military escort and was lodged in Brixton jail. The government announced on August 19 that he was sentenced to two years' imprisonment.

MacSwiney's hunger strike brought numerous solicitations and protests to the British authorities, many of the appeals being from sympathizers in the United States. Even a threat from the Sinn Féin in Ireland, in the event of his death, a general strike and serious disturbances would prevail throughout the island, appeal was taken directly to the king; but this also proved unavailing.

During his imprisonment, the lord mayor received numerous messages of encouragement and also petitions to abandon his strike. He replied to the latter that if he gave up his fight, he would "give away Irish liberty" and that he would "rather die than do that."

Replying to reports that sustenance was being given Mayor MacSwiney, the British home office declared "if he is being fed we do not know it," while members of MacSwiney's family denied categorically that food had been given him.

Peter MacSwiney, of New York, a brother of the lord mayor, is an official of the American commission for Irish independence.

SOLDIERS LEARN NEW WAY TO "MARCH"

DEAUVILLE, France—"An army marches on its stomach," said Napoleon and now France takes the Little Emperor quite literally and her recruits must learn to "march" on their solar plexi. It is a good exercise and not a muscle of the body has escaped vigorous use when a man finishes his "march."

IRELAND NOT TO REVOLT

Attitude of Sinn Fein on MacSwiney's Death—No Revolt Probable

BY WILLIAM H. BRAYDEN
(From the N. Y. Globe)
DUBLIN, Ireland, Oct. 25.—Public anger in Ireland over the death of hunger strikers is not expected to lead to anything like a general outbreak. The accepted forecast is that the hunger strikers will die off, one by one, each new death adding to the inflamed popular feeling.

Sinn Fein discipline is too good to permit volunteers to come out in masses to be mowed down by machine guns. There certainly will be shootings and burnings. The attitude of the government seems to be that the shootings and burnings would go on anyhow, so far as the Sinn Feiners were able to carry them.

Not Sinn Fein Policy

It can be stated that Lord Mayor MacSwiney and the eleven prisoners at Cork undertook the hunger strike of their own motion, and not in pursuance of a Sinn Fein policy. All Sinn Fein leaders and the rank and file, numbering nearly 500, who are in jail, have taken food from the first. They include men whose status in the movement is as high as MacSwiney's.

To begin with, while the country admired MacSwiney's pluck, it doubted his prudence. But, after a month or so, when it became evident that he and all the Cork men meant to hold out, Irish opinion grew practically unanimous that their suffering and endurance had earned them their release.

The idea being that a month without food was a fair equivalent for their sentences.

The firm refusal of the government to release any of them was a surprise. Men with responsible positions in the government service had passed it around that, when they had had enough of it, the government would let them out under the "cat and mouse" act. I was told so myself by an official. But every day's endurance made it harder for either side to yield.

Irish Peace Conference

When the Irish peace conference met it recognized the force of opinion on the question. Believing the death of the lord mayor would so embitter feeling as to make the work of peace-makers hopeless, the delegates made it their first business to pass a resolution, which they wired to the prime minister, then in Lucerne, urging the release of the lord mayor. The men who made this request included several years and privy councillors, and some eminent lawyers. The government, which, in the case of the Mounjo strike, yielded to less pressure, refused to budge.

O. B. JOYFUL

How Halloween Tick-tack Was Improved On

"An old fashioned 'tick-tack,' made by swinging a nail against a window pane by means of a string may be all right," says Squire Abner Harpington, "but we fellows improved on that crude device at Halloween when I was a boy. In those days, there used to be bottles of ginger ale and pop, and—yes, these were beer bottles—that had a rubber washer or gasket over which the porcelain top fitted and was clamped down. These rubber washers with a small hole in the centre furnished the most necessary material for a 'tick-tack.'"

"Fastening on the end of a string a small piece of metal and running the string through the hole in the rubber, it was possible, by wetting the rubber, to make it stick to the windowpane."

"Then, with the string carried across the street and a little rosin on it, by passing it through the fingers a delightful series of raps could be made on the windowpane."

"By the time the late householder appeared at the door, a sharp jerk would loosen the rubber from the window and all signs of the tick-tack would be gone."

"France has sent her spokesmen to me," declares Hon. B. B. Beebe, "asking America in its new realization of the situation to please not stick a tick-tack on her window Halloween."

"The King of Denmark sent me a postcard," asserts Hon. Hank Frank, "asking me to cable him if the American tick-tack is similar to the Danish 'tick-tack.'"

"Portugal sent her spokesman to me," says the Hon. J. Bunk, "to ask me why we don't use the tick-tack on Halloween."

"Cleveland sent her Speaker into the world series," observed an innocent bystander, "asking Brooklyn in its new realization of the situation to please hand over that championship pennant, and be quick about it."

On the other hand, as N. Webster neatly points out, "tick-tack is the same as ticky."

PAINS NEARLY DOUBLED ME UP

Nothing Helped Me Until I Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wyandotte, Mich.—"For the last four years I have doctored off and on without help. I have had pains every month so bad that I would nearly double up. Sometimes I could not sweep a room without stopping to rest, and everything I ate upset my stomach. Three years ago I lost a child and suffered so badly that I was out of my head at times. My bowels did not move for days and I could not eat without suffering. The doctor could not help me and one day I told my husband that I could not stand the pain any longer and sent him to the drug-store to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and threw the doctor's medicine away. After taking three bottles of Vegetable Compound and using two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, I could do my own housework. If it had not been for your medicine I don't know where I would be today and I am never without a bottle of it in the house. You may publish this if you like that it may help some other woman."—Mrs. M. A. R. STREYER, 120 Orange St., Wyandotte, Mich.

CHIMES INSTALLED AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

A set of indoor chimes containing, it is believed, more bells than any other of its kind in the world, was rung for the first time at the evening service in St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church yesterday. The chimes had been installed without the knowledge of most of the parishioners and expressions of surprise and wonderment were present when the "Vesper Hymn" was played upon them for the first time.

The chimes are of the tubular variety and are made of brass pipe. One of the tubes is seven feet long and two inches in diameter. The others are 1½ inches in diameter and of varying lengths.

The notes rang from B flat below middle C up to the note on the third line above the staff. The largest chime is for giving the effect of tolling.

The bells are rung from the organ manual. Electricity is used in making the connection between the manual and the bells that are 100 feet away. The chimes are located directly under the balcony and as the sound comes down through the ceiling into the church gives an unusual effect.

The chimes were designed and installed by Charles V. Barker, organist of the church. For nearly a year he has been at work on the installation. The bells are the gift of Mr. Barker to the church.

EXPERIENCED IN CHARTER DRAFTING

Dr. A. R. Hutton of the American City Consultants, who will address the chamber of commerce membership meeting in Memorial hall, Wednesday evening, has had considerable experience in drafting charters.

Dr. Hutton's practical experience is extensive. At the request of the Chicago charter commission of 1906-1907, he prepared material upon which that body based its deliberations. This material, published under the title of "Digest of City Charters" was a pioneer work in that field, and is still used as a work of reference.

He is author of the home rule provision of the Ohio constitution under which cities of that state are authorized to frame and adopt charters for their own government. In 1913 Dr. Hutton was elected to the Cleveland charter commission, which framed the present charter for Cleveland.

WITH THE FIREMEN

There were three brush fires yesterday afternoon, the first in Rogers street near the Concord river at 2:10 o'clock, the second near Flemings street at 4:15 and the third near Fort Hill park at 5:15 o'clock. Telephone alarms summoned the fire fighters to the various places. Saturday evening there was a slight fire in the basement of Standish & Normandin in Middle street, and brush fire in Wentworth avenue.

THE COAL QUESTION

According to the Wholesale Coal Association, there is no scarcity of coal in this country. The Atlantic ports are handling all the coal they possibly can ship abroad and there is ample for the domestic supply.

Another authority, a coal trade journal, makes the statement that "the people the country over have more coal in their cellars than they ever had in any previous year at this time."

That is not true of New England and we do not believe it is true of any part of the country.

What the people want at the present time is coal, and they cannot get it. Moreover if the statements referred to were true, why should the price be so high?

The people are advised to put all thought of a shortage out of their minds and order just enough for a few weeks. We do not know whether this is trustworthy advice. By that time perhaps a large portion of our supply would be shipped to England in order to supply her deficiency caused by the coal strike.

"The country," we are told, "is 30,000,000 tons ahead and is mining more coal each day than can be used here or shipped abroad."

The Wilkes-Barre, Pa., chamber of commerce in reply to inquiries relative to the coal situation, says that "a shortage of labor in the anthracite coal region is responsible for the shortage of coal in New England, Ohio and Michigan." It is alleged by the same authority that 10,000 additional laborers are needed in that region and that until they are supplied, the coal shortage will not be overcome.

It is shown that a company that in 1914 employed 4,800 men has now but 2,300. Miners are averaging from $175 to $200 per month, while laborers get from $125 to $150. Despite these wages operators say it is difficult to secure men. Furthermore, all the operators are agreed that they cannot meet the demands for coal and that even when the shortage is overcome there will be good business ahead for over a year. That statement seems to us more reliable than any of the others and it seems to accord more with the facts of the present situation.

The Coal Trade Journal says that the nation has created "potential over-production" with the result that the mines cannot be operated full time and that the men must therefore be paid unusually high wages so that working days can pay for idle ones. The people of Lowell know that they have found it difficult to get coal at any price and that at the present time the prices are much higher than they should be, two years after the conclusion of the war.

The labor situation, the transportation difficulties and the export to Europe regardless of domestic needs, have brought about a coal shortage that will bring vast prices from the people for their winter coal.

We are not so much concerned with the causes as with the effects—the shortage of coal and the high price.

SCHOOL FADS

At the present time, partly as a result of the war, the innovations in our school courses are such as to greatly lessen the time given to the great essentials—reading, writing and arithmetic.

In this effort to crowd new fads into the schools, Lowell, we presume, is no worse off than most other cities; but yet from all we can learn from both teachers and parents, the time given to really profitable study of the essential branches is less than ever before and the results correspondingly low.

In our local schools the new scheme of physical training puts an additional tax upon the time of the pupils, while the appeals of one kind or another, together with athletic and other attractions, all serve to divert the minds of the children from real work. In addition to these drawbacks, there are interruptions by a number of supervisors. Never before have we had so many supervisors. There are three in writing, one in class instruction, one in English, one or two in drawing, one in sewing and one in music. Some of these may be necessary, but of some others there is emphatically no need. Judging from the time thus wasted, it is not at all difficult to explain why many grammar school graduates reach the high school with inadequate preparation, and why high school graduates fall behind in English and other branches in which they are expected to be fairly proficient.

The introduction of departmental teaching in the elementary schools is another cause of distraction so that altogether it is no wonder the children do not make as much progress as might be expected.

Of late, too, the children have become so interested in moving picture shows that they carry the craze into the schools with the result that it is harder than ever before to get children to give any serious attention or any sustained effort to their lessons.

In view of these facts, it is plain that the teachers of the elementary schools have more difficulties to overcome than ever before. The result can be only detrimental to the schools as a whole.

INDUSTRIAL CHANGES

Apparently the industrial situation of today presents signs of important changes affecting standards of value in clothing and other products and likely eventually to result in reduced cost of living and production generally. Woollen houses are cutting prices in some cases to the extent of 50 per cent; cotton manufacturers will make reductions on a less radical scale where they have not done so already.

The fact of the matter is, that the general public for some time past has refused to buy clothing at the prices quoted. The result has been cancelled orders and dull business or shut-downs in the cotton and woollen mills.

Textile centres not only in New England but in the south are in a rather unsettled condition as nobody can tell just what will develop.

Some of the great clothing manufacturers have decided to hold back their spring openings in order to give the dealers an opportunity to clear off their left-over stock.

Organized labor will fight any reduction of wages in the mills, preferring rather to go on short time than submit to a cut in wages. This is the position taken by the Lowell Textile Council and it will be endorsed by operatives generally, although it is noticeable that the operatives of a Fall River mill accepted a 20 per cent cut down in preference to a shut-down.

With the cost of living as high as at present, no family can afford to be idle unless it has a very respectable bank account. Manufacturers will probably take things easy until the present system of taxation be revised so as not to bear so heavily upon manufactured products. The change in this tax will be the first work expected from congress when it meets in December.

It is hoped that the cold weather will bring a demand for goods that will encourage the manufacturers. So far as the instability and reduction of prices is the result of economic laws, the transition toward pre-war conditions cannot be prevented.

During the war the textile manufacturers dealt very fairly with their employees and it is to be hoped they will still hold to that policy even in the face of adverse conditions.

What is happening to the textile business at the present time will reach the building industry later on with the result that conditions will be more favorable for the construction of dwellings to relieve the housing shortage.

ELECT COOLIDGE

Now that Congressman Fuller calls Washburn a lunatic, what is the independent candidate to do? The latter had been insinuating that there was something the matter with Fuller and many reasons why he should not have received the nomination. He actually boasts of the fact that he is not a republican and that he will be free from bias in the consideration of questions coming before him.

As between Fuller and Marcus A. Coolidge, the democratic candidate, the friends of good government will support the latter who is eminently fitted for the office or even for the higher office of governor should he be called thereto.

While Washburn and Fuller fight, the voters can best serve the interests of the state by electing Coolidge.

It is calculated to prove a bit disconcerting to the docile farmyard fowl to find herself turned into a pecking machine with egg prices leaping upward while grain prices are tumbling in the opposite direction.

The employees of the North Chelmsford mills complain that their wage cut comes at an "inopportune time." Wouldn't it require a wait for the better part of an eternity for an "opportune time" to turn up?

Homer Cummings asserts that William Johnson has "sold his soul" to support Senator Harding, and he might have added that the buyer has a somewhat shop-worn piece of merchandise on his hands.

A contemporary says that "the best brain in the United States is that of Elihu Root." It is the brain that tried to keep Boss Tweed out of jail, and it is now taking the old boss' home to pay for the service.

It is a safe wager that when a movie picture machine becomes common in the schools, the last "school-boy creeping like a snail unwillingly to school" will exit from the scene.

Poor old October, if it had only had as rhymable a name as June, what an anthology of verse might have been written about its superlative days.

With three automobiles for its use, the municipal department under the direction of Mayor Perry D. Thompson ought to be able to "go some."

Gov. Coolidge seems to have been a proper without honor even in his own country so far as the Lowell public rally was concerned.

Very soon now we shall be able to welcome the pigskin hero to town and speed the departing political speculators.

Among the other problems to be settled next week is whether the ladies of the next four years shall be named Warren or James.

Connecticut furnishes another example of the very practical difficulties that lie in the way of convicting a woman of murder.

For a while longer we can all look forward to saying "I told you so" the day after election.

"The arch conspirator of the age" is a somewhat derisive title for the town-meeting moderator of Nahant.

"New York in Grip of Tragedy" says a headline. We can all sympathize—we know how it feels.

In politics, as in about everything else, the women are keeping us posted.

If the women organize a party of their own we can foresee that some men will be anxious to join.

A new synonym for unsatisfactory—wobbly as Harding.

Better not bet.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

A few evenings ago I was in the photographic "dark-room" of a friend while he developed a number of negatives of pictures of autumn scenes that he had obtained out along the boulevard between Lowell to Nashua. They were taken with a pin-hole camera. If more people knew of the pleasure and beautiful pictures that may be obtained with the pin-hole camera I believe there would be many more of them in use. This is the ideal time of the year for taking outdoor pictures, especially at night. The light now is commonly soft and hazy and for the dense shadows and deep contrasts that are part of pictures taken in summer sunlight, there is a soft luminosity in the darker parts of the negatives that is full of detail. The home-made pin-hole camera only lacks some of the refinements of construction detail that make the article bought in stores a little more convenient in use. The pin-hole, itself, gives a depth of focus and sharpness of definition that is equalled, but not exceeded, by the most expensive anastigmat lenses. Anyone, with a little ingenuity, can make a pin-hole camera. About all that is required is a couple of old cigar boxes and a piece of tin-foil taken from a yeast cake. It will be necessary to purchase three or four plate holders and fix up some sort of a way of holding them in the camera. A film pack is better, and any man or woman who is handy with tools, by studying a film-pack camera for a short time, can duplicate the film-holding part of it. For a focus, it is only necessary to make a hole carefully with a fine needle in a piece of tin-foil, and put this in place in front of where the plate or film is to be.

The time of exposure required with a pin-hole is, of course, much longer than with an ordinary lens.

During his recent trip to New York city to attend the motion picture centennial conference called by Mayor Peters of Boston, Mayor Thompson of this city had an opportunity to chat with Mayor Hylan of New York and he reports that that official is a most interesting gentleman. The conversation first dealt with the mill situation in Lowell and then Mayor Hylan announced that he had just come from a meeting of a committee of officials who were discussing the municipal budget for 1921. Mayor Thompson once recalled the interesting session, which are held in city hall in Lowell when the annual budget comes up for discussion and casually asked what the New York budget would total next year. "Why, we haven't quite decided," replied Mayor Hylan, "but I figure it will be in the neighborhood of $50,000,000." And in Lowell when the $5,000,000 mark is reached, most people think that all records have been broken.

Big Democratic Rally

was held a meeting of the supporters of John T. Sparks, candidate for the state senate, at which there was much enthusiasm.

In a short speech, Mr. Sparks said that if ever a candidate for office was fortunate in the possession of hosts of loyal friends, he is such a candidate.

"This meeting," he continued, "shows that the voters of this district are aroused, and that instead of a defeat by scarce 100 votes, as was the case last year, triumphant victory is destined to perch on our banners. In going about the district I have found a sentiment responsive to my candidacy and I am satisfied that it will eventually result in success at the polls. My record as a member of the house and senate stands unassailed, and it proves that my services were appreciated as given in behalf of the masses of the people whom I will serve if elected. I challenge my opponent to point out in my record one item that would bar me from receiving the support of the great mass of voters."

Mr. Sparks congratulated the women upon their entrance into the full rights of citizenship, and said that he believed that his candidacy would appeal strongly to the women in the homes.

The meeting was presided over by former Representative John W. Hannan, and Arthur T. Cull acted as secretary.

Ward committees were appointed in all of the wards of Lowell that are part of the senatorial district to look after the campaign. The chairman of the committee are as follows: Ward 1, Charles A. Barry; ward 2, John J. Gilley; ward 3, Thomas J. Fitzgerald; ward 4, John H. Cull; ward 5, James J. Gallagher; ward 6, John J. Hayes; ward 7, Henry Quirbach.

A transportation committee, to look after the provision of automobiles for use on election day, was appointed as follows: Walter H. Bayette, chairman; Patrick F. Cox, Representative Thomas J. Corbett, James J. McManmon and Oliver Desrosiers.

Remarks were made during the meeting by former Alderman James J. Gallagher, James J. McManmon, Patrick F. Cox, John J. Gilley, Raymond Lynch and Thomas J. Fitzgerald, member of the democratic state committee.

It was voted at the meeting that a request should be made of the election commissioners to open forthwith and keep open until election day bureaus of information in which women voters, and others, can apply for instructions regarding methods of casting ballots. It will be asked that these bureaus be kept open in all of the polling places of the city.

Another meeting of the friends and supporters of Mr. Sparks, at which women will be especially invited to be present will be held in EKS' hall next Friday afternoon.

Reports from the representative districts in which democrats are seeking election, indicate a very favorable sentiment and active work.

Indeed during the past two weeks the trend of sentiment toward the democratic ticket has been remarkable.

Rooms of Lowell Legion

—The Teachers

Final arrangements for the opening of the Knights of Columbus school were made at a meeting of the committee yesterday. Five classrooms are being fitted up at the headquarters of the Lowell Legion on Dutton street, and when completed the rooms will be admirably adapted for the purpose.

The space to be occupied is not needed by the legion and the house committee of the post have made an arrangement with the Knights of Columbus under which the use of the rooms for the evening school will be advantageous to both parties.

The teaching staff is complete except for the classes in accounting and these will be engaged during the present week.

Mr. John J. Donovan, the principal, speaking of the teachers chosen, makes the following statement:

"The appointments include Vincent Fitzgerald and John Fitzgerald, newcomers to Lawrence, Edward A. Lawlor, master of the Rollins school, John A. O'Hearn and William A. Donovan. The appointment of the Lawrence men has been approved by the committee in charge of the school and they have been engaged for two terms of 16 weeks each.

"Mr. Lawlor and Mr. O'Hearn will teach classes in civil service preparation. Mr. Donovan will teach a class in business arithmetic and business English. He teaches in the evening high school of Lawrence and is a supervisor of the commercial subjects, followed by the wounded and disabled veterans of the great war in the Boston district. Dallas Gives Party to 150,000 Happy Texas Children

BY W. W. FERGUSON,
N.E.A. Staff Correspondent.
DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 25.—Imagine a family of 150,000 youngsters—even for one day. Well, Frank W. Wozencraft, youthful mayor of Dallas, and Dan G. Fisher, publicity director of the inter-urban lines in North Texas, played daddies to that many little folk at the recent Children's Day at the Texas State Fair.

terances with which he will rest his candidacy.
The speech to be delivered Saturday night at Columbus, occupied the notice of the major attention, though it was said that some data still remained to be prepared for the three he will deliver during the week at Cleveland, Akron and Cincinnati. In all of these addresses, he is expected to enunciate again his position on the League of Nations, and also sum up the domestic policies he has advocated in the course of the campaign.

It is expected that manuscript for all of the four meetings will be ready by the time the senator leaves here Wednesday but that any points which come to the front during the week will be discussed in extemporaneous additions to what he has prepared.

used. One boy wrote Fisher: "My teacher won't give me a holiday but I'm coming anyway. Send me a ticket." Fisher sent six tickets, so the lad wouldn't get a lickin' all alone. Wozencraft and Fisher paraded the ground all day long, talking and playing with the little folk. It was a wonderful gathering and a thrilling sight—100 acres of ground just seething with youthful humanity.

POLLING BOOTH IN CITY LIBRARY

The reading room of the city library will be one of the voting places on state election day, one week from tomorrow, the election commissioners announced today. The reading room will be used instead of the old polling booths which formerly stood at the junction of Merrimack and Colburn streets and which interfered seriously with traffic on the latter street. Arrangements have been made with the library authorities to have the main reading room in the basement of the library turned over to the election commissioners on election day. The stands used for daily papers will be kept and cardboard partitions erected between them, thus affording an ideal polling place.

ASK BOTH CANDIDATES TO SUPPORT LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—More than 50 supporters of Senator Harding and Gov. Cox, republican and democratic presidential candidates, last night joined in an open letter to them asking their pledge to work, if elected, for the United States' entry into the League of Nations with whatever revision of the Lodge reservations two-thirds of the next senate may approve.

Assessing that "the approaching national election may be infective of the dominant issue of the campaign and leave the vital question of our entry into any league or association of nations still deadlocked in the senate or between the senate and house with decision more hopeless than before," the letter said:

"Believing that now and not after the election, when new partisan alignments, new ambitions and new animosities may make it doubly difficult, is the time to secure the commitments against such a damaging situation, we are giving our earnest support to the reasonable and thoroughly practical proposal contained in the question which we now present to you as follows:

"If the election fails to provide the required two-thirds vote in the senate for our entry into a league or association of nations for the preservation of peace upon a basis more satisfactory to you, will you advise and support our entry into the existing League of Nations with the Lodge reservations or with such revision of them as two-thirds of the senate may approve?"

"Whatever may be our individual preference as to the form the settlement of the League of Nations question, or whether it is to be a league or a new association of nations, is not the vital concern in this proposal. An affirmative answer to it would call for no fulfillment until after one side shall have exhausted every reasonable effort to enter the existing League of Nations with mid or merely interpretative reservations, and the other shall have tried every fair expedient to supplant the league with a new and different world organization for the preservation of peace, or to enter it after thorough revision by the adoption of other reservations or amendments."

ABSENTEE VOTERS

Nellie M. Ring First Lowell Woman to Take Advantage of the Absentee Voting Law

Four more Lowell voters who expect to be out of town on state election, November 2, sent their absentee voting ballots to the local election commissioners today. Among them is Nellie M. Ring, the first Lowell woman to take advantage of the absentee voting law. She sends her ballot from Chicago. Dennis J. Ring and John J. Sullivan also send their ballots from that city. The trio are on their way to California. Karl Fred Erickson sends his ballot from Washington, D. C. This makes a total of eight absentee voting ballots received by the election commissioners up to the present time.

Sun Representative at Big Game Pays Tribute to "Bo" McMillan

(Special to The Sun)

HARVARD STADIUM, Oct. 23.—The referee's whistle has just brought to a close the greatest football game ever played on the historic turf of Harvard University's citadel of sport and the huge concrete stands and temporary bleachers at the open end of the mammoth horseshoe are spilling 35,000 men, women and children on to the checker-board surface where only a moment before Harvard's football machine had crushed West Centre College by the score of 31 to 14.

It wasn't the enormous crowd, for although it numbered close on to 40,000, even bigger ones have been packed into the stadium; it wasn't the game itself, although none other so inspiring had ever been waged on New England soil—no, it was neither of these. It was the spirit, the spontaneous, unbridled outburst of a crowd that forsake the home team and pulled night and main for the little eleven from Danville, Kentucky, and which had traveled 1200 miles to taste the bitter pill of defeat for the first time in three years.

Yes, sir, if that crowd numbered 35,000—and expert estimators said it did—at least 25,000 of it were yelling maniacs for Centre; for "Bo" McMillan, for "Red" Roberts and "Red" Weaver and the other lads who wore the white and gold of the college that nestles within the hills of old Kentucky.

No living soul who watched the game could control his or her emotions. They just naturally spilled out and voiced themselves in unorganized and unpractically every minute of the four 15-minute quarters.

As the closing whistle sounded and the fast dropping sun touched only the open end of the stadium, one name was on every pair of lips, one man stood out in memory head and shoulders above all the others who were either the crimson or the gold during this game of games—"Bo" McMillan—quarterback and captain of the Centre eleven, Walter Camp's first choice for All-American quarter in 1919 and the inspiring genius of a game a bunch of football players as ever marred the turf of an American gridiron.

For the past four weeks McMillan has stood out boldly in the spotlight of publicity and his fame was a well-thumbed book to practically every person in the vest throng, but there were some who were skeptical, maybe we were, just a little. He was an unknown quantity as far as actual and personal observation was concerned and New Englanders were waiting to be shown.

"Bo" showed us all, showed us more than any other football player ever did and showed us in a manner that left not the slightest suggestion of doubt. Against Harvard he was a superman and more than one wish went out that he might be seen in action without the weight of the captaincy and full directorship on his muscular shoulders. Folks, believe me, he would be miraculous as a free running half-back with someone else to tend to the generalship worries.

And just a word about this year's Harvard team. It is typical of the Haughton and Fisher regimens—a strong, resourceful, well balanced machine, with plenty of first water substitutes, power, football sense, weight, speed and stamina. Perhaps not the greatest eleven in Harvard's history, but we doubt if it will know the sting of defeat this season. Harvard won and deserved to, but the individual starry crown goes to Centre's leader, "Bo" McMillan, a whirling dervish from the other side of the Mason and Dixon line.

utes of strenuous playing the Indians got the ball on the 30 yard line, when McIntyre hurled a beautiful forward pass to Loucraft, and the latter, after a splendid run, planted the ball over the line. McIntyre then kicked the goal.

In the final period the Indians went in to hold their opponents safe and were succeeded when a signal for a long forward pass, McIntyre took the ball and threw, but Sullivan of the visitors, intercepted the ball and dashed 25 yards to within five feet of the goal line before being downed. In three line plunges, Sullivan carried the ball and blocked the ball, and here the game ended.

The visitors then rushed in a number of touchdowns, Loucraft and McIntyre, both kicking from touchdowns, McIntyre and Thornton. Time, four 15-minute periods.

Substitutes for Indians: Turner in place of Young; For Pere Marquette, Sullivan, Porter, Kirby, Healey, Murphy, Connolly, Buckley and Dowling.

For two full periods the teams battled furiously up and down the field, but no score came. The Indians played a great passing and kicking game in the first half. The visitors showed many trick formations and much intelligent football. They worked a cross-play, with both backs carrying the ball that brought many gains. They hit the line well and their only weakness seemed to be a tendency to fumble. The Indians worked the forward pass, for which they are famous, and were on the alert and recovered several Boston fumbles which pulled them out of several bad holes.

Camel CIGARETTES

Winston-Salem, N.C. Monday

Dear PETE:

Bet you a house and lot you'd stay in W-S a month if you ever got to know folks here like I have. Between business and Reynolds factories and a belly time—well my date book has been bubbling over! And, I'm still running into facts that would stagger even your imagination, old football, with all your kick!

Pete, take it straight from government figures direct to you that every work day in the week R.T. Reynolds Tobacco Co. buys from our Uncle Sam enough revenue stamps to pay for a duplicate of the handsome new Winston-Salem post office building! Ever hear of such a thing?

And, if you want to get an eyefull of an army of more than 15,000 people, be down in the Reynolds factory district when the whistles blow! Looks like more folks than you ever saw at a Princeton-Yale football game! Never saw such a cigarette firing-up time in my life!

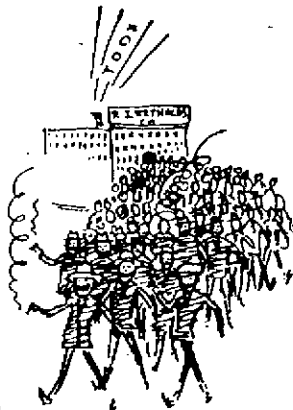

Peter, everytime you light a Camel in the future, call back on what I've slipped you about Camels—absolutely, the greatest cigarette at any price—for quality, for refreshing flavor, for mellow mild body, for freedom from any unpleasant cigarette aftertaste or odor! It's worth the busiest smoker's time to compare Camels with any cigarette in the world! Camels are simply a revelation! You know that.

I'll spill you a lot more just as quick as I get a whack at you across the dinner table!

I'll open my eyes in Atlanta tomorrow! In the meantime here's a wad of best wishes I have in stock!

PERE MARQUETTE AND INDIANS PLAY TIE

After outplaying and out-generalizing the formidable Pere Marquette K. of C. eleven of Boston for three quarters, the Indians exhausted and crippled, relaxed in the final 10 minutes of play, and as a result of failure to execute a long forward pass which was intercepted by one of the opponents, gave the visitors an opportunity to even the score and the game ended 7 to 7.

The Indians have appeared in many thrilling and bitterly contested games on the gridiron, but few compared with that of yesterday afternoon on the old fair grounds. Over four thousand spectators were on hand, several hundred coming from Boston. The day was ideal for the players, but a little warm for the spectators.

The visitors made a great impression as they marched on the field, with a squad of 25 men, all dressed and equipped for action. The Indians had but eleven men in uniform and this fact caused some delay as the game progressed and had a tendency to weaken the locals toward the far end of the game.

The visitors employed their reserves to advantage, making 16 substitutions during the afternoon, while the Indians made but one, this coming in the final period when young Turner, who had played with the Indian seconds earlier in the afternoon arrived at the grounds. He relieved Young at left guard.

For two full periods the teams battled furiously up and down the field, but no score came. The Indians played a great passing and kicking game in the first half. The visitors showed many trick formations and much intelligent football. They worked a cross-play, with both backs carrying the ball that brought many gains. CENTRE TO REMAIN ON HARVARD SCHEDULE

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 25.—Centre college probably will appear on the Harvard football schedule next year, it was said today. The Kentucky team which held Harvard even for two periods in the Stadium Saturday, and went down to a glorious defeat in a fighting finish, has been asked to hold open on its next schedule, the date corresponding with that on the schedule of this year.

All Harvard, undergraduates, faculty, athletic management and players, appeared to favor the southerners' return. The only qualification, according to a graduate authority, was involved in the question of the team's makeup next season. With assurance from Coach Moran that Captain "Bo" McMillan, field general, extraordinary propeller of phenomenal forward passes, artful rusher and defensive power, would lead his team again, this qualification appeared removed.

HUNTING SEASON CLOSED

Although there has been a lack of forest fires in the vicinity of Lowell, the officials of the Lowell Fish and Game association took speedy steps to inform the members of the organization of the action of Lieutenant Governor Channing Cox in declaring the hunting season closed Saturday afternoon as a means of safeguarding the woods. Much of the freedom from fires in this section is believed to be due to the care of members of the association during their trips in the woods. It is believed that in the event that there is a season of heavy rain later in the fall, the hunting season will be extended to cover the same number of days that are cut off by the official proclamation.

NO BOUTS THIS WEEK

Owing to failure to secure a capable substitute to take the place of Phinney Boyle, who was to have boxed Freddie Jacks here Thursday night, the Crescent A.A. has called off the meeting. It is expected that the meeting will be held a week from Thursday night.

Organization Formed To Make Washington Literary Centre

BY HARRY D. HUNT,

N.E.A. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Washington famous not merely as the capital of the United States but as the hub of America's literary and artistic thought and as an international centre of world art and culture.

That is the aim of a new organization now being formed here which has its first patron in the literary light than President Woodrow Wilson. It is expected President Wilson, when he retires from the White House March 4, will devote himself largely to literary pursuits, occupying a place in the forefront of American historians and authors, his interest in and support of the new organization has given it an impetus and influence which normally it would have required years to attain.

Literary Centre

The National Pen League and International Literary Association, which the president sponsors as first patron, is the conception of Mrs. Florence Stoddard of Washington, former president of the League of American Penwomen. Mrs. Stoddard held that if Washington were to make the most of its opportunities as a literary and art centre some means would have to be found of bringing American men as well as women and also the men and women of other countries to the city. In Washington, interested in art and letters, into an organization through which their mutual interests might function.

That this broader program struck a popular chord is apparent from the fact that about 150 writers, artists and composers have enrolled as charter members. The international representation already includes, among others,

Senor Juan Riano, Spanish ambassador; Senor Alencar, Brazilian ambassador; Senor Milzalde, minister from Ecuador; and Senor Cespedes, minister from Cuba.

Mrs. Mabel Boardman, former Red Cross leader and author of "Under the Red Cross Flag," has become an active member.

Field of Work
Hailed down, here is the field of work the organization will undertake to put Washington on the world's art and cultural map:

To foster literary appreciation and understanding of the works of authors, artists and musicians in all countries.

To encourage international interest in the output of such producers.

To secure, through the interchange of ideas, a greater world appreciation of American creative work, more general translations of American literary productions and more notice for American artistic and musical compositions.

To make known the advantages of Washington as a place for study and research work and of inspiration for creative writing, composition and design.

To maintain in the American capital headquarters from which authors, artists and composers may receive information relative to their interests.

To receive and entertain foreign writers and artists visiting the country and to send information of their movements to bodies in other cities, allied with the Washington organization, desiring to offer similar hospitality.

Just how far President Wilson's support of the organization will go, and what active part he may take in its work when he becomes simply "Mr. Wilson, author and ex-president," no one, of course, knows.

GREAT FOOTBALL GAME ON TEXTILE CAMPUS

LOWELL HIGH DEFEATS CONCORD HIGH

Despite repeated attempts to make their open play result in tangible scoring, the Textile school players were unable to break a scoreless tie in their game with an eleven representing the class of 1923 of Massachusetts Institute of Technology at the Textile campus in Moody street Saturday afternoon. The Tech visitors, however, did the honors, scoring a touchdown and three field goals, while the Textile players were unable to score.

The game was one of the most interesting fought on the textile campus for some time and a large crowd watched every play. Textile was out to avenge the defeat received from Tech last year and worked with a vengeance, but the Tech team was too evenly matched for either to win.

Macher, one of Textile's all-around star athletes, playing fullback, twice attempted to kick the ball, but it went a few inches shy each time.

Technology was most dangerous in the third quarter when Tech kicked off and one of the opening players captured the ball. In a few minutes the ball was in the neighborhood of Textile's goal and Metcalf, the visitors' fullback, started on a run, but the Tech players, including Macher, tackled him before he could reach the goal.

In the first quarter Tech came nearer scoring than at any other time. A series of plunges and a forward pass netting 20 yards brought the Tech players to the Textile 10 yard line. Tech then kicked the ball into the hands of the visitors, who were unable to score.

Marble, Brigham, Lombard and Macher played good football for Textile, and Metcalf and Cronin starred for Technology. The lineup and summary:

In its 16 to 7 victory over Concord high at Spalding park, Saturday afternoon, the Lowell high school football team had to be on its toes all the time, especially against open field football during the last two periods. Since points of Lowell's score were made within about the same number of minutes after the referee's whistle started the game. The first period saw indications of an easy and overwhelming victory for the local team, but the Concord team became stronger as it warmed up in the play. Lowell presented a much heavier set of players than did the visitors and visitors and much of the battering that Concord received, Concord's lightness was compensated for, however, in a certain quickness in some plays which fooled Lowell's players.

Concord kicked off to MacAdams on the 20 yard line and he ran it back 30 yards to the side of the field where he was downed. He then took the ball for another dash through the center of the field for 25 yards, when he tripped and fell. Then in two downs Lowell brought the ball to their opponents' goal posts and Cahill carried it over for the first touchdown. Cahill missed the goal. Then on the second kick-off, Lowell rushed right down the field, breaking through Concord's line at all points, and brought the ball within 20 yards of the goal. G. MacAdams hurried in taking the ball and Lowell was penalized. Liston tried forward for three times but they were all fumbled, and then on the last down, Cahill drop-kicked the ball over the regular goal posts for a touchdown. Liston, who has been out of the regular games so far this season, received commendation for his display of pep and generalship throughout the game. He showed what may be expected of him in future games.

Concord became more aggressive and plunged nearer the goal, where a forward fumble, Lowell stiffened on the five yard line and got the ball on downs. Normandin sent in for Trull. Then with MacAdams and Normandin rushing through center, a bluff end run through center by Liston and Cahill was blocked by Holt. Lowell worked up to within 16 yards of another score.

For rough tactics, Lowell was put back 15 yards, but a perfect forward pass was gobbled up by Holt in regaining the penalty. Concord got the ball on its five yard line through a fumble by Normandin, but on the three yard line, Concord fumbled on a line play. Liston took the ball for the second touchdown and Cahill kicked the goal. At this point, Concord showed more fight and followed Lowell closely on all plays, holding the line.

In the second half Concord ran back the kick-off to the 40 yard line, then Lowell was penalized five yards for offense. In fast and confusing open field plays, Concord took the ball to the five yard line and Pickard went over for their first touchdown. Mullaney kicking the goal. Spurred on by this score, Concord fought hard for the remainder of the game and in the third period pressed the local eleven dangerously. Time and time again they sent their backs through Lowell's center for gains, but eventually they failed to score.

The game ended with the ball in Lowell hands under Concord's goal and Liston trying hard to push through for another touchdown. Liston, who has been out of the regular games so far this season, received commendation for his display of pep and generalship throughout the game. He showed what may be expected of him in future games.

Summary: Lowell 16, Concord 7. Referee: Gibbons; umpire: Keefe; head linesman: Mahoney. Time, four 12-minute periods.

virtually agreed upon, Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, announced today. He said a final conference of interested parties would be held tomorrow or Wednesday and added he was confident the agreement would be signed before Carpentier leaves the United States a week from next Saturday.

The bout probably will be in Madison square garden in January or June, 1921.

Kearns said the match had been virtually assured by a series of conferences held here within the past few days, attended by himself, Francois Descamps, Carpentier's manager; Tek Rickard, the Madison Square Garden promoter; William A. Brady, theatrical producer, and Charles B. Cochran, English sporting promoter.

Government's Cotton Ginning Report

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The government's cotton ginning report today showed a total of 5,712,057 bales ginned prior to October 18, and indicated that the sporadic attempts through cotton belt to keep gins closed until the price of cotton advanced to higher levels had had little effect. The ginnings this year aggregated 782,953 bales more than the quantity ginned to Oct. 18, last year, when the crop was 794,000 bales smaller than that forecast for this year. On the government's forecast of a crop of 12,123,000 bales this year, the ginning to Oct. 18 appeared to be about 47.1 per cent of the total. This is a higher percentage than was ginned last year to Oct. 18—43.5 per cent—but lower than the average, 48.9, for the last 18 years.

New York Meeting to Denounce Britain

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—A mass meeting of citizens next Sunday afternoon at the Polo Grounds to denounce British treatment of Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork was called today by the committee on Irish independence. Protests against "the attacking of towns by British police and the treatment of other hunger strikers" are to be made in speeches by Enmann de Valera, "president of the Irish Republic" and Frank P. Walsh, of the committee on Irish independence.

Bungalow on Wheels to Beat H.C.L.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—A bungalow on wheels, under construction by a Staten Island resident and prospective inhabitant of Florida, is claimed to be the latest device for beating the high cost of building and railroad transportation. William Ward, designer of the rolling home, consisting of a living room, bath and kitchen, reckoned it would be cheaper to build, equip and tow his household, intact, by automobile to a place where he would not need coal, than to ship his effects by train.

Local Superintendent of Schools Please Take Notice

While they're handing round these medals, my nomination for this week goes to the superintendent of schools of Shelbyville, Ind. Every human in the country will join me, too. Of course, progress is inevitable and all that, but some of us men have been growing uneasy at the encroachment of the female upon rights that have belonged to the male from time immemorial. When old King Ed the Third instituted the Order of the Garter, he never suspected that useful article of feminine apparel would ever be called upon to support—so to speak—an invasion of man's rights.

When men decided to cover their rather extremities with pants, as distinguished from tights, the sock was the natural and inevitable result. Socks have been man's exclusive property up to the present time. And, when the female tries to annex that article, exclusively the property of man, it is time for every real man to protest. But few of them do. Therefore, my nomination of the superintendent of schools of Shelbyville. Because he has had the nerve to act. From now on, young women in the Shelbyville high schools, who roll their stockings down below their knees, will not be permitted to attend school.

This is a firm and courageous stand. It hits in the bud—or in the knee—an insidious attempt to take away one of man's last prerogatives. Long live the sock for man!

Relieve Your Rheumatism For 25c.

NR does it by improving digestion, assimilation and elimination—the logical way.

NR Today—Relief or No Pay

There are three vital processes of human existence—the digestion of food, the extraction of nourishment from it and the elimination of the waste.

Let anything interfere with these processes—let them be interrupted or improperly carried on, and sickness of some kind follows.

Poor digestion and assimilation means failure to derive full nourishment from food and that in turn often means impoverished blood, weakness, anemia, etc. Poor elimination means an accumulation of waste matter which poisons the body, lowers vitality, decreases the power of resistance to disease and leads to the development of many serious ills.

Rheumatism, due to some interference with the process of elimination, failure to get rid of certain body poisons—cannot be expected to yield to any medicine that fails to correct the condition responsible for it. Could any reasonable person expect to rid himself of rheumatic pain as he can rheumatic poison is allowed to remain in the body.

Think of this. It explains the success of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) in so many cases where other medicines have failed. Thousands are using NR Tablets every day and getting relief. Why pay five or ten times as much for uncertain results? A box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets), containing enough to last twenty-five days—must help you, must give you prompt relief and satisfactory benefit or cost you nothing.

And Nature's Remedy is not only for the relief of rheumatism. It improves digestion, forces the liver, regulates kidney and bowel action, improves the blood and cleanses the whole system. You'd feel like a new person when you've taken NR Tablets a week. You've tried the expensive medicines and doctors, now make the real test. You'll get results this time. Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

SIMPLE APPLICATION

THAT DISSOLVES BLACKHEADS

No more squeezing and pinching to get rid of those unsightly blemishes, blackheads. There is one simple, safe and sure way to get them out and that is to dissolve them. To do this just get about two ounces of calomel powder from your druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub briskly over the blackheads for a few seconds—wash the parts and every blackhead will be gone.

Pinching and squeezing out blackheads make large pores and you cannot get all of the blackhead out this way—while this simple application of calomel powder and water dissolves every particle of them and leaves the skin and pores in their natural condition. Any druggist will sell you the calomel powder and about two ounces will be all you will ever need.—Adv.

Willmansett Woman Has Gained 21 Pounds

Tanlac Overcame Her Troubles Four Years Ago and She Is Still in Perfect Health—Suffered Fifteen Years

Here is another instance of the remarkable reconstructive powers of Tanlac. Mrs. Orla Tanlac, a highly esteemed resident of 283 Chicopee street, Willmansett, Mass., declares that only a few bottles of the medicine has not only relieved her of a case of stomach trouble of fifteen years' standing, but that her weight has been increased twenty-one pounds, besides.

But let Mrs. Tanlac tell her own story. Here is what she says: "It was four years ago that Tanlac restored my health and I haven't taken any medicine since but have been feeling simply fine ever since."

"I had suffered for fifteen years and had gotten so bad off that honestly I don't believe I would be here today if it hadn't been for Tanlac. My stomach hurt all the time and it just seemed that nothing I ate would digest properly. I had to give up eating all the things I liked best and I felt off so much in weight that it frightened me. I would lose weight dreadfully with gas and there was such a severe burning in my stomach I could hardly bear it. There were sharp pains all around my heart and at times I had sinking spells when I felt so smothered and choked up I thought I was fainting."

"I suffered also from catarrh and the poison from my head and throat made my stomach worse. I had to live entirely on soup and crackers and toast and light things like that and I fell off until I weighed only one hundred and nine pounds and was so weak I could hardly get about the house. My liver was sluggish, my tongue was coated and my complexion became pale and sallow. I was badly constipated and often had splitting headaches and sudden attacks of dizziness. I was so nervous that I lost sleep night after night and became so completely worn out that I felt that I might break down at any time."

"But my husband brought me home Tanlac some one day and I took a turn for the better in the very first bottle. I began to feel hungry and what I ate didn't hurt me. The gas which began to disappear and my breathing became free and easy. I took four bottles in all and by the time I finished taking them every symptom of my old troubles left me, and I remember I felt so happy at the time that it seemed as if I was starting life all over again. I was in perfect health and had gained twenty-one pounds in weight. Since then I haven't been troubled in any way and have felt as strong and well as I ever did in my whole life. This is what Tanlac has done for me and I don't believe anyone can make a mistake by taking it."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Greens Drug store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

THEY DO NOT AGREE
City Solicitor and Auditor
Take Different Views

If the city of Lowell becomes involved in litigation with the Richard D. Kimball Co., electrical contractors at the new high school building over the payment of a bill of $5131 for redrawing plans, the city will lose the case and will be forced to pay more than the amount called for in the bill, City Solicitor William D. Regan said today.

City Auditor J. Joseph Hennessy has refused to approve the payment of the bill in question because of a belief that the extra work which the Kimball Co. did in modifying plans was provided for in the original contract with the city and therefore, the company has no right to ask for further compensation.

City Solicitor Regan, on the other hand, contends that there was no provision in the contract for the revision of plans once they had been approved by the city council and the school committee. He quotes from the contract as follows:

"Said Kimball Co. will prepare and furnish, and, if necessary, redraw and modify plans, drawings and specifications to meet the approval of said municipal council and school committee."

The meeting was largely attended, and President John Butterworth was in the chair. The wage question was discussed at length and the members of the union were unanimous in protesting against the action of the two mills and it was voted to present the matter before the international office.

At the close of the meeting the following statement was given out for publication:

"The wool sorters are not pleased at the wage reductions and they got together to discuss the matter. It has been done to prevent their going into effect. National Officers Francis J. Gorman, president, of Providence, R. I., and Secretary George S. Brier of Lawrence were notified of our action and will be here to take the matter up with the management either Monday or Tuesday. The sentiment of protesting the reduction was unanimous and though we don't propose to do anything drastic we will be guided by our international officers in whatever we do."

DOSE OF BUCKSHOT FOR THIS FELLOW
A man who seems to take great pleasure in playing the part of a thug by spouting words and hitting with a tapping on window pane, rapping on doors, and so on, is at large in the Highlands district despite all efforts being made to catch him. Women have been held up by this same fellow. It is said, while he attempted to kiss them.

One report telephoned into the police station was to the effect that about 5:30 o'clock yesterday, near the corner of Parker and Wilder streets, a man jumped out from a clump of bushes and grabbed a young woman by the arms. Her screams attracted a man who started her assailant away. The latter is described as being tall and thin, with moustache and wearing glasses. Other descriptions annex the fact that he is very athletic and is able to hurdle fences and make a getaway without any difficulty. Two citizens of the Highlands are said to be laying for him with shotguns loaded with buckshot.

Shea joined as a musician second class, having been musician in the National Guard and Mayer signed as an apprentice seaman for the musicians' school. The district of which Lowell is a part has received congratulations and commendation from the bureau of navigation for the good showing it made in full in the quota of men during the recent drive for recruits.

GOMPERS URGES LEAGUE

Declares Covenant Gives Labor Bill of Rights—Document of Humanity

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Replying to a question from William Michaels, a Tulsa, Ok., labor leader, as to what effect the League of Nations, as advocated by the American Federation of Labor, would have upon the laboring people of this country, Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, last night wired that the labor provisions of the covenant constituted labor's "bill of rights," and "is a document for humanity."

After pointing out that the federation, at its 1918 convention, had unanimously voted an endorsement of the league, Mr. Gompers urged American workers should support the league because its provisions would confer "lasting benefits upon the wage-earners of the world," and "is a great international effort to forward those measures that make for the improvement of the standards and health of the people in all signatory nations."

Mr. Gompers' statement was supplemented by a statement from the federation's non-partisan political campaign committee further expressing what was termed the viewpoint of labor. All opponents of the league, the statement declared, could be classed either as "extreme reactionaries or extreme radicals." The former, it said, opposed the league because the covenant provides "the best check on reaction," while radicals opposed it because it means a "bitting against change."

Statement asserted, "a viciously false one," as the league "facilitates and encourages evolutionary development and progress," and provides "the best possible check against turbulent and unhealthy upheaval of destructive character."

SAYS COX HAS WON NEW YORK

Governor Makes Bitter Attack on the Saturday Evening Post

Left Independent Course to Become Republican Pauper—Flays Owner

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—After a 49-hour visit which his campaign managers declared had "won New York," Governor Cox left here yesterday afternoon for the last week of his campaign speech-making before the presidential election. Before departing for West Virginia, and thence to Indiana, Kentucky and Ohio, he expressed "entire confidence" in the outcome of the campaign. "Frankly, I expect to be elected," he said in one of his five speeches and yesterday he reiterated his conviction to those who called to pay their respects to him and Mrs. Cox at the hotel in which they stayed while here.

Throughout the day except for an hour during which he drove around the city as guest of George White, chairman of the democratic national committee, Governor Cox kept to his apartment, receiving the latest reports on the outlook from his lieutenants in the field.

Among those who were closed yesterday with him for long conferences behind closed doors, were E. H. Moore, who was the governor's prevention campaign manager; Norman E. Mack, democratic national committeeman for New York; George Foster Peabody and Senator Patrick Harrison of Mississippi. Mrs. Cox said she had given up her plan to accompany him.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

THE GRAY BALL

"What's that for?" asked Mr. Hunt. He laid down his cane and rolled up his sleeve, thereby showing his willingness to start the ball rolling. or, as you might say, to start the stone-throwing.

Nancy had held her apron pockets with stones from the edge of the pond, and now passed them around to everyone.

Then all the boys lined up and took turns trying to hit the ball on the tree. Greenie Grasshopper couldn't throw signed his name, and this is what the label read:

"Whoever hits the large gray ball on the willow tree first will get something most unusual."

Nick explained it all to Mr. Bunny, and everybody else stopped talking and listened.

"I see," said Ben nodding approvingly. "There's a prize for the best hitter—for anyone who hits the ball's-eye. Now, sir, what shall we throw and when shall we begin?"

pany her husband on the final lap of the presidential race. Instead she said she would return to Dayton to await the result at her home.

Just before leaving the hotel for the Pennsylvania terminal where his train waited, Governor Cox issued the following statement:

"Propaganda is not effective when it is labelled but in the guise of facts it strangles the truth, and moulds the minds into which it is introduced as facts. The American people discovered this during the war and finally they put upon disloyal propaganda the label which destroyed it."

"I am just now in possession of a specimen of propaganda of this very sort. It is an advance copy of the Saturday Evening Post, known to a great public as a disinterested journal. In all its history its stated purpose has been to present the facts and atmosphere of political situations and to refrain from controversial positions. In this spirit the Saturday Evening Post has been admitted as counsellor and friend into millions of American homes.

"But the number of this magazine which is to be distributed next Thursday, the last number before election, suddenly throws off the cloak of non-partisanship. For the first time in its history it resorts to the device of partisan editorial and malicious cartoons to create a sentiment for the republican ticket. In the cartoons I am represented as a newsboy, inventing false and sensational happenings for the purpose of selling my wares."

"My opponent is depicted as kindly and wise. The impression is sought to be created that I am irresponsible,

No one wanted to try after that. (Copyright, 1920, N.E.A.)

Do This For Constipation

THE public should know that there is a vast difference in the action of the various remedies for constipation. Some are "flushes," purges, physics. They gripe and weaken.

For lasting effect use a laxative. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin acts gently and mildly so that even a tiny baby can use it with safety. It is a compound of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin and pleasant-tasting aromatics. A sixty-cent bottle will last an average family many months.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the most popular of all laxatives and more is used in American homes than any other. Last year eight million bottles were sold by druggists, the largest sale in the world.

Senator Harding grave and reliable

"Why has the Saturday Evening Post done this? Why has it betrayed its mission at the last minute of the 11th hour of the campaign? The people know the answer. It has done this thing because its owner is one of the plutocratic group which knows what it wants of the next administration and how to get it from the candidate which controls Senator Harding. It has done this because its owner is the head of the movement which has sought a subsidy from the government for the delivery of national magazines. The Saturday Evening Post has imposed on the confidence of the American people, won by a long record of non-partisanship and has become a republican journal because the profiteers who escaped government taxes by diverting to it millions of their revenue in advertising want my opponent elected."

"These subscribers who in good faith have admitted this journal to their homes all over the United States will turn its venomous counsel out of doors."

"The last week of the campaign will be spent by Governor Cox in states where the struggle is reported tense—Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Kentucky. Today the governor will make nine speeches in West Virginia.

Most of the remaining four days of the campaign will be spent in Ohio, Indiana will be visited for the fifth time by the governor next Thursday.

Y.M.C.A. ACTIVITIES

About 200 attended the regular meeting of the Y.M.C.A. in the rooms of the Institute in Stockpole street yesterday morning. Progress was reported in the Halloween party scheduled for next week and for the carnival which will be held during the third week in November. This promises to be one of the biggest affairs undertaken by the society. A mass meeting of the girls of the parish was held yesterday afternoon in Y.M.C.A. hall and they promised support for the carnival. "Through the meeting yesterday it is possible that an auxiliary to the Y.M.C.A. will result."

FOR COURT RULING ON ESCH-CUMMINGS ACT

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The supreme court may be asked to interpret the Esch-Cummings transportation act as a result of the certification to the railway board of a number of wage disputes involving employees of electric railroads.

The board has been hearing arguments for two weeks on the question of whether or not it has jurisdiction under the act over such lines. A decision is not expected before next week. Either side may appeal to the courts if not satisfied with the board's decision, and members predicted today that an appeal would be taken.

Representatives of electric railway employees in several cases now pending before the board argue that the electric lines, as feeders of steam railroads, are part of the steam road systems.

Mayor MacSwiney Dead

the body would be turned over to relatives.

Officials at the home office withheld comment on the case, aside from saying that every precaution had been taken and every means resorted to, including "forcible feeding" during the last few days, in an effort to keep the prisoner alive.

Was 46 Years Old

Terence MacSwiney was 46 years old and was one of the most prominent Sinn Féin leaders. He started life as a draper's assistant, but became a poet, author and playwright before taking up politics seriously. Later he became violently anti-English.

While in Wakefield jail, Yorkshire, in 1918, he met Muriel Murphy, daughter of a wealthy Cork distiller, who visited the jail, and shortly after they were married, despite much opposition.

Announcement by the home office that heart failure was the cause of death, is considered an indirect answer to the criticism of Dr. Joseph O'Connell, a physician and publicist, who declared it was wrong for the lord mayor's doctors to administer meat juice and brandy. He said brandy was a poison and that a man at the point of death was susceptible to poison. He added that when a man fasted a long time, the first food he could endure was fruit juice.

When one of the officials was asked today regarding Mrs. MacSwiney's absence from the bedside when death occurred, he replied that restrictions recently imposed upon the visits of relatives was urged by the attending physicians as vital to the prisoner's own interests.

Crowds Move Toward Prison

As soon as the news of the lord mayor's death began to spread through the city, small knots of people began moving toward Brixton prison. The police, however, did not allow anyone to enter the street leading to the prison entrance, keeping the people moving so that a crowd would not form. Fears had previously been expressed that the lord mayor's death might cause a demonstration at the prison.

The MacSwiney family arranged for the removal of the body from the prison to St. George's cathedral, in London, as soon as the inquest was ended. The body will lie in state there.

until it is taken, probably on board a special train, to Dublin, where it is planned to place it for a day or two in the Mansion House.

MacSwiney's grave will be alongside that of his official predecessor, Lord Mayor Thomas MacCurtin, who was shot in his own home in Cork on March 20. MacSwiney will be the fourth to be buried in this plot, the others being MacCurtin, Sheamus McQuirk, who was taken out of bed in his Galway home and shot, and Jeremiah McNulty, who participated in the Easter rising in Dublin in 1916.

Governmental interference with funeral arrangements is regarded as unlikely. The progress of the funeral party from Dublin to Cork will be marked by a series of services at all the populous centers en route. Final obsequies will be held in Cork cathedral and interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery in Cork. The grave in which MacSwiney will be buried is known as "republican plot," which has been reserved for Irish nationalist soldiers.

The news of Lord Mayor MacSwiney's death, received in private telegrams to his friends, travelled with lightning speed throughout the city. A meeting of the city council was called. The deputy lord mayor announced that he and several other municipal officials would proceed to Brixton prison today.

Widow Visits Cell

A friend of the family who accompanied Mrs. MacSwiney when she visited Brixton prison today said the lord mayor's telegram of Oct. 18 to the Cork hunger strikers with reference to the death of the hunger striker, Michael Fitzgerald, in Cork jail in which he referred to Fitzgerald as having died for his country and joined the immortals, characterized the family's attitude.

"Mrs. MacSwiney and the lord mayor's sisters, Anne and Mary who were not present when the end came, entered the cell, kissed the mayor's cheek, knelt silently in prayer a few moments and then left," the friend said. "There was not a tear shed by the mayress, who preserved the same stoical self-possession she has shown throughout the long ordeal."

Guard Against Outbreaks

CORK, Oct. 25. (By Associated Press).—Fervent interest in possible developments caused by the death of Lord Mayor MacSwiney was mingled today with the grief in which his death has plunged south Ireland. Although the people appear stirred to the highest degree of bitterness, it is regarded as extremely improbable that there will be any outbreaks or disorderly demonstrations in this city.

It is expected, however, there will be considerable extension and intensification of guerrilla warfare against the police and military forces, which, anticipating reprisals, are doubling their vigilance, especially in remote districts.

Cork Jail Guarded

Cork jail, where a number of hunger strikers are in a grave condition, is guarded inside and outside by soldiers equipped with machine guns.

There is an exceptionally large garrison there. It is equipped for any eventuality, has a number of tanks and armored cars and is ready for instant service. Military forces are so strong that it is considered improbable that any attempt at force will be made here.

Oppose Violence

It is understood the Irish parliament had been making appeals all elements of the population to refrain from violence. This is also believed to be the policy of various influential leaders of the Sinn Féin movement. Whether such counsels will be followed by the younger element or by members of the Irish republican brotherhood, one of the most militant of Irish secret societies, remains to be seen.

Grief in Dublin

DUBLIN, Oct. 25.—The news of the death of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork was received here today with evidences of profound grief. It was intended to fly the city flag at half-staff, but British troops were in possession of Mansion House over which the flag usually flies.

Throughout the city there were signs of mourning and prayers for the repose of the soul of the late lord mayor were offered in all the churches.

MacSwiney's hunger strike was begun on August 12 when, with ten of his associates, he was arrested by soldiers in a Sinn Féin court. After trial by a court-martial under the regulations of the Defence of the Realm Act, he was found guilty of sedition and sentenced to two years' imprisonment, which he was serving in Brixton prison in London.

MacSwiney, then an alderman of Cork, was elected Lord Mayor of the city at a special session of the Corporation on March 30 of this year.

He was a well known Sinn Féin leader and, prior to his election, had been deported and imprisoned several times, one of the latest notable instances of his confinement having been in 1916 in connection with the Irish Easter revolt.

When arrested on August 12, MacSwiney was taken to the City Hall, which soldiers had surrounded, but was captured outside. He was taken to the military barracks and came up for trial on August 16. The court-martial found him guilty of having control of the secret police cipher, of having in his possession a document likely to cause disaffection, namely, a copy of a resolution of the Cork Corporation.

The subjoined poem was written by Terence J. MacSwiney, the late lord mayor of Cork, who has just died in Brixton prison as a result of his hunger strike in protest against the injustice of his imprisonment. His death adds another to the long list of martyrs to Ireland and few indeed ever suffered more for the cause, for in his 13 days' fast, he must have endured unspeakable agony. He was one of the bravest and best young men in Ireland. The patriotic spirit by which he was imbued is well set forth in his own words in the following poem, although it gives but a slight hint of the great sacrifice he made in thus deliberately yielding his young life—leaving his wife and child only a blessed memory and a name that will live in the bright galaxy of young men who have died for Ireland.

"TEACH US HOW TO DIE"
BY TERENCE J. MACSWINEY
Late Lord Mayor of Cork

God, we enter our last fight;
Thou dost see our cause is right;
Make us march now in Thy sight
On to victory.
Let us not Thy wrath deserve
In the sacred cause we serve;
Let us not Thy love be swerve;
Teach us how to die.
Death for some is in reserve
Before our flags can fly.

All the agony of years,
All the horrors, all the fears,
Martyrs' blood, survivors' tears,
Now we offer Thee
An endless holocaust
For the freedom we have lost,
God restore it though the cost
Greater still must be:
Let Thy grace attend our host.
Give us victory.

We, we open our own hearts;
Every wrong that in them starts,
Every secret pain that starts,
We too, offer Thee.
Every dearest hope we cease,
Every fear that robs our peace,
Every cross with pain's increase,
Burdened though we be;
Sacrifice that shall not cease
Till our land be free.

Thou hast freedom in Thy hand;
Thou canst liberate our land;
Hear us: yield our one demand—
Ireland's liberty.
We ask for our children to live
And the sacred deed survive,
That we may rejoice alive,
In her victory;
We but ask that she shall thrive,
And rest our fate with Thee.

We know not what must befall
Marching at our country's call;
Make us strong who must yield all
That we may not die.
Those who will survive the fight,
Still attend them with Thy light;
Thou, our hope in darkest night,
Then their guardian be;
And hold our dear land in Thy sight
Direct, firm and free.

tion pledging allegiance to the Dail Eireann, the Irish republican parliament, and of having made a seditious speech on the occasion of his election.

Already weak at the trial because of his refusal to take food, MacSwiney disputed the jurisdiction of the court, saying: "I am the lord mayor of this city and its chief magistrate. I declare this court illegal and those taking part in it liable to arrest under the laws of the Irish republic."

The day following his trial, Lord Mayor MacSwiney was deported to England aboard a destroyer, under a heavy military escort and was lodged in Brixton jail. The government announced on August 19 that he was sentenced to two years' imprisonment.

MacSwiney's hunger strike brought numerous solicitations and protests to the British authorities, many of the appeals being from sympathizers in the United States. Even a threat from the Sinn Féin in Ireland, that, in the event of his death, a general strike and serious disturbances would prevail throughout the island, added weight directly to the king but this also proved unavailing.

During his imprisonment, the lord mayor received numerous messages of encouragement and also petitions to abandon his strike. He replied to the latter that if he gave up his fight he would "give away Irish liberty" and that he would "rather die than do that."

Replying to reports that sustenance was being given Mayor MacSwiney, the British home office declared "if he is being fed we do not know it," while members of MacSwiney's family denied categorically that food had been given him.

Peter MacSwiney, of New York, a brother of the lord mayor, is an official of the American commission for Irish independence.

Women Out on Strike

loopers had refused to work, but he said the walk-out did not amount to anything as all the places of the strikers had been filled. He also stated that the plant was operating about 25 per cent and that hundreds of women had been refused employment this morning. The underwear departments, which had been shut down since the strike began, were reopened this morning and a small portion of the help were put back to work. The knitters in the underwear and hosiery departments, who had also been out for some time, reported this morning and most of the knitting machines are now operating.

The Merrimack Mfg. Co. and the Massachusetts cotton mills, which shut down last Thursday night, resumed operations this morning. The Hamilton Mfg. Co., which shut down Friday night until this morning, did not open today, for at the 11th hour the mill officials decided to keep the plant closed until Tuesday morning.

All employees of the Ipswich hosiery, at least all those who were employed when the mill shut down two weeks ago, reported for work this morning and all were given employment. The superintendent of the plant stated this forenoon he does not know just what the working schedule will be in the future, but this week he expects to have the mill in operation at least until Wednesday night.

AMUSEMENT NOTES
By Theatres' Own Press Agents
MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
The big double-feature program arranged for presentation at the Merrimack Square theatre today, tomorrow and Wednesday should appeal to all classes of patrons of the popular Palace street amusement house. One of the features will be "The Furnace," a big William D. Taylor production. The play concerns a London society man and his giddy young wife, who before their marriage had been a musical comedy favorite. The theory of the plot is that all married people must go through the furnace of bitter experience before they realize their mutual happiness. The other big feature for the first part of the week is "The Soul of Youth," starring Lila Lee, and a strong supporting cast. A Sennett comedy, the International News and Topics of the Day round out the bill.

RIALTO THEATRE
"The Branded Woman" with Norma Talmadge taking the principal part, is the main attraction opening at the Rialto theatre this afternoon and continuing for the three first days of the week. Another strong bill running the same three days is "The Secret Room," with Dom Moore as the drawing card. Both are excellent pictures, of an entirely different kind, and form the heart of a first class entertainment. In addition to the two big pictures, the Rialto is showing a Hank Mann comedy, entitled "Junk," Episode 2 of the "Third Eye," and the latest program of Foxes and the Ford weekly. The selection of the program cost the Rialto management no little trouble but the theatre is glad to be able to live up to its standard for good, strong shows.

OPERA HOUSE
The first big society melodramatic success of the season is scheduled for production by the Lowell Players at the Opera House this week. "The Spider" is just such a piece, the creation of Edward Francis Brackett, and it is said to rank with the biggest and best stock offerings of its kind in years. It has all of the elements that contribute to a drama of this brand and the characters contained in the cast are just the kind that offer excellent opportunity to the engaging company to indicate its rare ability in highly dramatic parts. As the title of the play readily indicates, "The Spider" tells the story of a man of the world, a man of good family and a proud name, yet passion's slave. He cloaks himself with pretended virtue and retirement, and employs himself in weaving a net about the women of his high social circle whom he desires. Then he endeavors to use the same circumstances to rid himself of his victims. A murder is done and suspicion is directed against the young man, who is in love with the heroine of the play. For a time the finger of suspicion is directed at the young man, but a sudden twist of circumstances brings about an unexpected confession that is followed by disclosures of a most startling nature. Miss Margaret Fields and Milton Byron, leading woman and man of the company, whose work in various branches of stage endeavor has pleased the patrons beyond measure, will have their first real 100 per cent dramatic

THE STRAND
Three big features on the same bill is the offering by the Strand for the first three days of the present week. It is the third anniversary of the theatre, and the occasion is being celebrated by turning out in large numbers. The program, and George Walsh in "From Now On" will be second in line. The last but not the least pleasing feature will be Buster Keaton in "One Week." Such a program as this is not given in any other theatre in New England, and no doubt the patrons of Lowell and vicinity will show their appreciation by turning out in large numbers. The weekly and extra musical numbers will add to the pleasure of the bill.

roles of the season. Maxwell Driscoll will also be found in a role entirely different from those in which he has heretofore appeared. The others of the company will also be pleasingly assured. The play has genuine merit and should give general satisfaction to all lovers of melodramatic, artistically and cleverly interpreted. Tickets are selling fast for the coming performances. H. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
A little black face comedy, some hard playing that is dazzling, and trombone numbers that will touch the heart—that's the combination to be offered by H. F. Keith & Co., at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week. "The African Duke" is the title of the act to be given, and it's as classy a mixture of funny comedy, pretty girls and attractive music as one could wish for. Miss Carlene Diamond, the harpist, is one of the youngest players on this difficult instrument on the stage, and Miss Edith Swan, celebrated trombonist, is another very pretty girl and capable performer. But Farrell Taylor, is after all, the big boss of the act, and he is declared to be exceedingly funny. A young woman with a positive genius for pleasing audiences is Clara Howard, who will sing songs and tell stories, it's a simple little lay-out for entertainment purposes, but it is quite sufficient for Miss Howard is nothing if not original. To look upon her will fascinate one, and when one hears her velvet voice he will wonder just why she isn't a big-league, all of the time. The "Big League" so to speak, does her operating the greater part of the season, and so Lowell audiences may consider themselves fortunate indeed in seeing her at all. "Trying to Please" is the label given to the conglomeration of fun and music which Claude Anderson and Leona Yvel will present. It isn't wholly possible to classify this act, because it dips into so many different types of fun-making that it is something made up of many good things. "Detailed" is the simple little title of the riotously funny comedy concoction which Holliday and Willette will give. It is declared to be an absurdity but some of the very funniest acts we have ever had have been absurd, and they were funny because of that fact. A couple of bachelors of music are

William Young and Charles Wheeler, who have assumed the titles, and yet who will measure up to a very high standard in giving music. The three funniest cut-ups on the stage, with rural attachments, are Bowers, Walters and Crocker, who are billed simply as "The Three Rubes." They do not remain inactive a second that they are on the stage. Fred and May Waddell turn over an act that is called "Everything in One," and which makes a splendid lively opener for a lively novel show throughout. Kinggrams, Topics of the Day and a screen comedy will also be shown.

SOLDIERS LEARN NEW WAY TO "MARCH"

DEAUVILLE, France—"An army marches on its stomach," said Napoleon and now France takes the Little Emperor quite literally and her recruits must learn to "march" on their solar plexi. It is a good exercise and not a muscle of the body has escaped vigorous use when a man finishes his "march."

IRELAND NOT TO REVOLT

Attitude of Sinn Fein on MacSwiney's Death—No Revolt Probable

BY WILLIAM H. BRAYDEN
(From the N. Y. Globe)
DUBLIN, Ireland, Oct. 25.—Public anger in Ireland over the death of hunger strikers is not expected to find vent in anything like a general outbreak. The accepted forecast is that the hunger strikers will die off, one by one, each new death adding to the inflamed popular feeling.

Sinn Fein discipline is too good to permit volunteers to come out in masses to be moved down by machine guns. There certainly will be shootings and burnings. The attitude of the government seems to be that the shootings and burnings would go on anyhow, so far as the Sinn Feiners were able to carry them.

Not Sinn Fein Policy

It can be stated that Lord Mayor MacSwiney and the eleven prisoners at Cork undertook the hunger strike of their own motion, and not in pursuance of a Sinn Fein policy. All Sinn Fein leaders and the rank and file, numbering nearly 500, who are in jail, have taken food from the first. They include men whose status in the movement is as high as MacSwiney's.

To begin with, while the country admired MacSwiney's pluck, it doubted his prudence. But, after a month or so, when it became evident that he and all the Cork men meant to hold out, Irish opinion grew practically unanimous that their suffering and endurance had earned them their release, the idea being that a month without food was a fair equivalent for their sentences.

The firm refusal of the government to release any of them was a surprise. Men with responsible positions in the government service had passed it around that, when they had had enough of it, the government would let them out under the "cat and mouse" act. I was told so myself by an official. But every day's endurance made it harder for either side to yield.

Irish Peace Conference

When the Irish peace conference met it recognized the force of opinion on the question. Believing the death of the lord mayor would so embitter feeling as to make the work of peace-makers hopeless, the delegates made it their first business to pass a resolution, which they wired to the prime minister, then in Lucerne, urging the release of the lord mayor. The men who made this request included several peers and privy councillors, and some eminent lawyers. The government, which in the case of the Mountjoy strike, yielded to less pressure, refused to budge.

The effect on public opinion was disastrous. Many men who, two months ago, detested the Sinn Fein because they thought it prevented an Irish settlement, are now Sinn Feiners, and their present violence is in proportion to the suddenness of their conversion. The peace conference is likely to meet once more, not to do any peace making, but to denounce the government and dissolve itself.

How Halloween Tick-tack Was Improved On

"An old fashioned 'tick-tack,' made by swinging a nail against a window pane by means of a string may be all right," says Squire Abner Harpington, "but we fellows improved on that crude device at Halloween when I was a boy."

"In those days, there used to be bottles of ginger ale and pop, and—yes, there were beer bottles—that had a rubber washer or gasket over which the porcelain top fitted and was clamped down. These rubber washers with a small hole in the centre furnished the most necessary material for a 'tick-tack.'"

"Fastening on the end of a string a small piece of metal and running the string through the hole in the rubber, it was possible, by wetting the rubber, to make it slide to the windowpane. Then, with the string carried across the street and a little rosin on it, by passing it through the fingers a delightful series of raps could be made on the windowpane."

"By the time the late householder appeared at the door, a sharp jerk would loosen the rubber from the window and all signs of the tick-tack would be gone."

"France has sent her spokesmen to me," declares Hon. B. B. Beebe, "asking America in its new realization of the situation to please not stick a tick-tack on her window Halloween."

"The king of Denmark sent me a postcard," asserts Hon. Hank Frank, "asking me to cable him if the American tick-tack is similar to the Danish tick-tack."

"Portugal sent her spokesman to me," says the Hon. J. Bunk, "to ask me why we don't use the tique-taque on Halloween."

"Cleveland sent her Speaker in the world series," observes an innocent bystander, "asking Brooklyn in its new realization of the situation to please hand over that championship pennant, and be quick about it."

On the other hand, as N. Webster neatly points out, "ticky is the same as tacky."

And, as a veteran of the late unpleasantness remarked, after parting company with a few million coolies: "A guy sure does feel tacky when he's ticky."

PAINS NEARLY DOUBLED ME UP

Nothing Helped Me Until I Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wyandotte, Mich.—"For the last four years I have doctored off and on without help, I have had pains every month so bad that I would nearly double up. Sometimes I could not sweep a room without stopping to rest, and everything I ate upset my stomach. Three years ago I lost a child and suffered so badly that I was out of my head at times. My bowels did not move for days and I could not eat without suffering. The doctor could not help me and one day I told my husband that I could not stand the pain any longer and sent him to the drugstore to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and threw the doctor's medicine away. After taking three bottles of Vegetable Compound and using two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash I could do my own housework. If it had not been for your medicine I don't know where I would be today and I am never without a bottle of it in the house. You may publish this if you like that it may help some other woman."—Mrs. M. A. STENDER, 120 Orange St., Wyandotte, Mich.

other of its kind in the world, was rung for the first time at the evening service in St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church yesterday. The chimes had been installed without the knowledge of most of the parishioners and expressions of surprise and wonderment were present when the "Vesper Hymn" was played upon them for the first time.

The chimes are of the tubular variety and are made of brass pipe. One of the tubes is seven feet long and two inches in diameter. The others are 1 1/2 inches in diameter and of varying lengths.

The notes rang from a flat below middle C up to the note on the third line above the staff. The longest chime is for giving the effect of tolling.

The bells are rung from the organ manual. Electricity is used in making connection between the manual and the bells that are 120 feet away. The chimes are located directly under the belfry and as the sound comes down through the ceiling into the church gives an unusual effect.

The chimes were designed and installed by Charles V. Barker, organist of the church. For nearly a year he has been at work on the installation. The bells are the gift of Mr. Barker to the church.

EXPERIENCED IN CHARTER DRAFTING

Dr. A. R. Hatten of the American City Consultants, who will address the chamber of commerce membership meeting in Memorial hall, Wednesday evening, has had considerable experience in drafting charters.

Dr. Hatten's practical experience is extensive. At the request of the Chicago charter commission of 1905-1907, he prepared material upon which that body based its deliberations. This material, published under the title of "Digest of City Charters" was a pioneer work in that field, and is still used as a work of reference.

He is author of the home rule provision of the Ohio constitution under which cities of that state are authorized to frame and adopt charters for their own government. In 1913 Dr. Hatten was elected to the Cleveland charter commission, which framed the present charter for Cleveland.

THE COAL QUESTION

According to the Wholesale Coal Association, there is no scarcity of coal in this country. The Atlantic ports are handling all the coal they possibly can ship abroad and there is ample for the domestic supply.

Another authority, a coal trade journal, makes the statement that "the people of the country over have more coal in their cellars than they ever had in any previous year at this time."

That is not true of New England and we do not believe it is true of any part of the country.

What the people want at the present time is coal, and they cannot get it. Moreover if the statements referred to were true, why should the price be so high?

The people are advised to put all thought of a shortage out of their minds and order just enough for a few weeks. We do not know whether this is trustworthy advice. By that time perhaps a large portion of our supply would be shipped to England in order to supply her deficiency caused by the coal strike.

"The country," we are told, "is 30,000,000 tons ahead and is mining more coal each day than can be used here or shipped abroad."

The Wilkes-Barre, Pa., chamber of commerce in reply to inquiries relative to the coal situation, says that "a shortage of labor in the anthracite coal region is responsible for the shortage of coal in New England, Ohio and Michigan." It is alleged by the same authority that 10,000 additional laborers are needed in that region and that until they are supplied, the coal shortage will not be overcome.

It is shown that a company that in 1914 employed 4,800 men has now but 2,300. Miners are averaging from $175 to $200 per month, while laborers get from $125 to $150. Despite these wages operators say it is difficult to secure men. Furthermore, all the operators are agreed that they cannot meet the demands for coal and that even when the shortage is overcome, there will be good business ahead for over a year. That statement seems to us more reliable than any of the others and it seems to accord more with the facts of the present situation.

The Coal Trade Journal says that the nation has created "potential over-production" with the result that the mines cannot be operated full time and that the men must therefore be paid unusually high wages so that working days can pay for idle ones.

The people of Lowell know that they have found it difficult to get coal at any price and that at the present time the prices are much higher than they should be, two years after the conclusion of the war.

The labor situation, the transportation difficulties and the export to Europe regardless of domestic needs, have brought about a coal shortage that will bring vast prices from the people for their winter coal.

We are not so much concerned with the causes as with the effects—the shortage of coal and the high price.

SCHOOL FADS

At the present time, partly as a result of the war, the innovations in our school courses are such as to greatly lessen the time given to the great essentials—reading, writing and arithmetic.

In this effort to crowd new fads into the schools, Lowell, we presume, is no worse off than most other cities; but yet from all we can learn from both teachers and parents, the time given to really profitable study of the essential branches is less than ever before and the results correspondingly low.

In our local schools the new scheme of physical training puts an additional tax upon the time of the pupils, while the appeals of one kind or another, together with athletic and other attractions, all serve to divert the minds of the children from real work. In addition to these drawbacks, there are interruptions by a number of supervisors. Never before have we had so many supervisors. There are three in writing, one in class instruction, one in English, one or two in drawing, one in sewing and one in music. Some of these may be necessary, but of some others there is emphatically no need. Judging from the time thus wasted, it is not at all difficult to explain why many grammar school graduates reach the high school with inadequate preparation, and why high school graduates fall behind in English and other branches in which they are expected to be fairly proficient.

The introduction of departmental teaching in the elementary schools is another cause of distraction so that altogether it is no wonder the children do not make as much progress as might be expected.

Of late, too, the children have become so interested in moving picture shows that they carry the craze into the schools with the result that it is harder than ever before to get children to give any serious attention or any sustained effort to their lessons.

In view of these facts it is plain that the teachers of the elementary schools have more difficulties to overcome than ever before. The result can be only detrimental to the schools as a whole.

INDUSTRIAL CHANGES

Apparently the industrial situation of today presents signs of important changes affecting standards of value in domestic and other products and likely eventually to result in reduced cost of living and production generally. Woollen houses are cutting prices in some cases to the extent of 50 per cent. Cotton manufacturers will make reductions on a less radical scale where they have not done so already.

The fact of the matter is, that the general public for some time past has refused to buy clothing at the prices quoted. The result has been cancelled orders and dull business or shut-downs in the cotton and woollen mills.

Textile centres not only in New England but in the south are in a rather unsettled condition as nobody can tell just what will develop.

Some of the great clothing manufacturers have decided to hold back their spring openings in order to give the dealers an opportunity to clear out their left-over stock.

Organized labor will fight any reduction of wages in the mills, preferring rather to go on short time than submit to a cut in wages. This is the position taken by the Lowell Textile Council and it will be endorsed by operatives generally, although it is noticeable that the operatives of a Fall River mill accepted a 20 per cent. cut down in preference to a shut-down.

With the cost of living as high as at present, no family can afford to be idle unless it has a very respectable bank account. Manufacturers will probably take things easy until the present system of taxation be revised so as not to bear so heavily upon manufactured products. The change in this tax will be the first work expected from congress when it meets in December.

It is hoped that the cold weather will bring a demand for goods that will encourage the manufacturers. So far as the instability and reduction of prices is the result of economic laws, the transition toward pre-war conditions cannot be prevented.

During the war the textile manufacturers dealt very fairly with their employees and it is to be hoped they will still hold to that policy even in the face of adverse conditions.

What is happening to the textile business at the present time will reach the building industry later on with the result that conditions will be more favorable for the construction of dwellings to relieve the housing shortage.

ELECT COOLIDGE

Now that Congressman Fuller calls Washburn a lunatic, what is the independent candidate to do? The latter had been insinuating that there was something the matter with Fuller and many reasons why he should not have received the nomination. He actually boasts of the fact that he is not a republican and that he will be free from bias in the consideration of questions coming before him.

As between Fuller and Marcus A. Coolidge, the democratic candidate, the friends of good government will support the latter who is eminently fitted for the office or even for the higher office of governor should he be called thereto.

While Washburn and Fuller fight, the voters can best serve the interests of the state by electing Coolidge.

It is calculated to prove a bit disconcerting to the docile farmyard biddy to find herself turned into a profiteering machine with egg prices leaping upward while grain prices are tumbling in the opposite direction.

The employees of the North Chelmsford mills complain that their wages cut comes at an "inopportune time." While it is required to wait for the better part of an eternity for an "opportune time" to turn up?

Home Cummings asserts that William Johnson has "sold his soul" to support Senator Harding, and he might have added that the buyer has a somewhat shop-worn piece of merchandise on his hands.

A contemporary says that "the best brain in the United States is that of Elihu Root. It is the brain that tried to keep Boss Tweed out of jail, and its owner took the old boss' home to pay for the service."

It is a safe wager that when a movie picture machine becomes common in the schools, the last "schoolboy" spelling like a word unwillingly to school will exit from the scene.

Poor old October, if it had only had as rhymable a name as June, what an anthology of verse might have been written about its superlative days.

With three automobiles for its use, the municipal department under the direction of Mayor Perry D. Thompson ought to be able to "go some."

Gov. Coolidge seems to have been a prophet without honor even in his own country so far as the Lowell republican rally was concerned.

Very soon now we shall be able to welcome the plebs here to Lincoln and speed the departing political spellbinders.

Among the other problems to be settled next week is whether the babies of the next four years shall be named Warren or James.

Connecticut furnishes another example of the very practical difficulties that lie in the way of convicting a woman of murder.

"The arch conspirator of the ages is a somewhat dandified title for the town-meeting moderator of Nahant."

"New York in Grip of Trusts" says a headline. We can all sympathize—we know how it feels.

In politics, as in about everything else, the women are keeping us posted.

If the women organize a party of their own, we are sure that some men will be anxious to join.

A new synonym for instability—wobbliness as Harding—

Better not bet.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

A few evenings ago I was in the photographic "dark-room" of a friend while he developed a number of negatives of pictures of autumn scenes that he had obtained out along the boulevard between Lowell to Nashua. They were taken with a pin-hole camera. If more people knew of the pleasure and beautiful pictures that may be obtained with the pin-hole camera, I believe there would be many more of them in use. This is the ideal time of the year for taking outdoor pictures for which the pin-hole apparatus is especially fitted. The light now is commonly soft and hazy and for the dense shadows and deep contrasts that are part of pictures taken in summer sunlight, there is a soft luminosity in the darker parts of the negatives that is full of detail. The home-made pin-hole camera only lacks some of the refinements of construction detail that make the article bought in stores a little more convenient in use. The pin-hole, itself, gives a depth of focus and sharpness of definition that is equalled, but not exceeded, by the most expensive anastigmat lens. Anyone, with a little ingenuity, can make a pin-hole camera. About all that is required is a couple of old cigar boxes and a piece of tin foil taken from a yeast cake. It will be necessary to purchase three or four plate holders, and fix up some sort of a way of holding them in the camera. A film pack is better, and any man or woman who is handy with tools, by studying a film-pack camera for a short time, can duplicate the film-holding part of it. For a lens, it is only necessary to make a hole carefully with a fine needle in a piece of tin foil, and put this in place in front of where the plate or film is to be.

The time of exposure required with a pin-hole is, of course, much longer than with an ordinary lens.

During his recent trip to New York city to attend the motion picture censorship conference called by Mayor Peter J. Donovan, Mayor Thompson of this city had an opportunity to confer with Mayor Hylan of New York. He reports that that official is a most interesting gentleman, the conversation first dealt with the mill situation in Lowell, and then Mayor Hylan announced that he had just come from a meeting of a committee of officials who were discussing the municipal budget for 1921. Mayor Thompson at once recalled the interesting sessions which he held in city hall in Lowell when the annual budget comes up for discussion and casually asked what the New York budget would total next year. "Why, we haven't quite decided yet," replied Mayor Hylan. "I figure it will be in the vicinity of $3,000,000 mark is reached, most people think that all records have been broken."

Big Democratic Rally

was held a meeting of the supporters of John T. Sparks, candidate for the state senate, at which there was much enthusiasm.

In a short speech, Mr. Sparks said that if over a candidate for office was fortunate in the possession of hosts of loyal friends, he is such a candidate.

"This meeting," he continued, "shows that the voters of the district are aroused, and that instead of a defeat by scarce 100 votes, as was the case last year, triumphant victory is going to perch on our banners. In going about the district I have found a sentiment responsive to my candidacy and I am satisfied that it will eventually result in success at the polls. My record as a member of the house and senate stands unassailed, and it proves that my service was appreciated as given in behalf of the masses of the people whom I will serve if elected. I challenge my opponent to point out in my record one item that would bar me from receiving the support of the great mass of voters."

Mr. Sparks congratulated the women upon their entrance into the full rights of citizenship and said that he believed that his candidacy would appeal strongly to the women in the homes.

The meeting was presided over by former Representative John W. Brennan, and Arthur T. Cull acted as secretary.

War committees were appointed in all of the wards of the city that are part of the senatorial district to look after the interests of Mr. Sparks. The chairman of the committee are as follows: Ward 1, Charles A. Burns; ward 2, John J. Gilley; ward 3, Thomas J. Fitzgerald; ward 4, John H. Cull; ward 5, James J. Gallagher; ward 6, John J. Hayes; ward 7, Henry Quirkbach.

A transportation committee, to look after the provision of automobiles for use on election day, was appointed as follows: Walter E. Guyette, chairman; Patrick F. Cox, Representative Thomas J. Corbett, James J. McMahon and Oliver Desrosiers.

Remarks were made during the meeting by former Alderman James J. Gallagher, former Representative Dr. Drayton, John J. Hayes, John J. Gilley, Raymond Lynch and Thomas J. Fitzgerald, member of the democratic state committee.

It was voted at the meeting that a request should be made of the election commissioners to open forthwith and keep open until election day a bureau of information to which women voters and others can apply for instructions regarding methods of casting ballots. It will be asked that these bureaus be kept open in all of the polling booths of the city.

Another meeting of the friends and supporters of Mr. Sparks, at which women will be especially invited to be present will be held in Elks' hall next Sunday afternoon.

In parts from the representative district in which democrats are seeking to elect a very favorable sentiment and active work.

Indeed during the past two weeks the trend of sentiment toward the democratic ticket has been remarkable.

Ideal Quarters Secured at

Rooms of Lowell Legion

—The Teachers

Final arrangements for the opening of the Knights of Columbus school were made at a meeting of the committee yesterday. Five classrooms are being fixed up at the headquarters of the Lowell Legion on Sutton street, and when completed the rooms will be admirably adapted for the purpose.

The space to be occupied is not needed by the legion and the house committee of the post have made an arrangement with the Knights of Columbus under which the use of the rooms for the evening school will be advantageous to both parties.

The teaching staff is complete except for the classes in accounting and these will be engaged during the present week.

Mr. John I. Donovan, the principal, speaking of the teachers chosen, makes the following statement:

"The appointments include Vincent Fitzgerald and John Fitzgerald, new-comers to Lawrence, Edward A. Lawlor, master of the Rollins school, John A. O'Hearn and William A. Donovan. The appointment of the Lawrence men has been approved by the committee in charge of the school and they have been engaged for two terms of 16 weeks each.

"Mr. Lawlor and Mr. O'Hearn will teach classes in civil service preparation. Mr. Donovan will teach a class in business arithmetic and business English. He teaches in the evening high school of Lawrence and is supervisor of the commercial subjects followed by the wounded and disabled veterans of the great war in the Boston district. Mr. Donovan was elected a teacher in the Lawrence continuation school but declined to accept the Lowell offer. Mr. Lawlor, Mr. O'Hearn and Mr. Donovan are ex-service men.

"Vincent Fitzgerald is the Lawrence resident manager for the Dwellie Roofing company. He graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1917 and Harvard law school last June. He elected to follow business instead of law. He is teaching salesmanship three nights a week in the Boston K. of C. school, where he made a fine success last year. The present year will be his last in teaching as business is taking most of his time. He will teach a class in salesmanship for the K. of C. here. John Fitzgerald, his cousin, is a graduate of the University of Minnesota.

note of the University of Minnesota, where he took honors in the scientific course. He will teach a class in reading blue prints."

The registrars will be notified to report for class work Nov. 1.

To Settle the Miners' Strike
Continued

Downing street today between Premier Lloyd George and executives of the miners' federation were confidently expected to lead to a settlement of the miners' strike which last week threatened to involve Great Britain in an industrial crisis. Prominent executives of the federation and government officials were quoted by newspapers as optimistic.

It is believed an arrangement will be reached by which each side can at least claim it has not yielded its main contention and it is asserted Premier Lloyd George will submit proposals which he hopes will make an increased output of coal so certain that it will be possible to grant immediately the increase of wages demanded. Miners' leaders are quoted as saying they are confident the government before long will find a way to concede the miners' claims.

NEIGHBORHOOD "MOTHER" VIOLATES LAW

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—Mrs. Clara Williams has been summoned to court for violation of a law which prohibits boarding more than four children at one time in one house. She has been "mother" to tiny sons and daughters of working people who were unwilling or unable to care for their children. When arrested she had 16 youngsters in her home, and explained that she knew nothing about such a law.

Newspapers continue hopeful for the most part and express relief that the National Union of Railwaymen decided to defer calling a strike. Such action, it is understood, will not be taken before Wednesday, whatever happens. The labor conference which was called by the parliamentary committee of the Trades Union Congress, will meet on Wednesday, and there are indications that a railway strike even if eventually called, may be rather half-hearted. Many messengers from local branches are said to have been received at the headquarters of the union, expressing hostility to the idea of a strike, and being accompanied by declarations that many men will refuse to obey such a call.

It is said that until a ballot of the workers has been taken the attitude of J. H. Thomas, secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, will certainly influence a large number of the members. In a speech delivered Sunday, while expressing sympathy for the miners, he warned his audience of the dangers of a strike, which he said, he realized "might lead to the downfall of all of us." He declared he was firm in his determination not to lead such a strike.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 25.—Imagine a family of 150,000 youngsters—even for one day. Well, Frank W. Wozencraft, youthful mayor of Dallas, and Dan G. Fisher, publicity director of the international fair in North Texas, played daddy to that many little folk at the recent Children's Day at the Texas State Fair.

The speech to be delivered Saturday night at Columbus, occupied the nominee's major attention, though it was said that some data still remained to be prepared for the three he will deliver during the week at Cleveland, Akron and Cincinnati. In all of these addresses, he is expected to enunciate again his position on the League of Nations, and also aim up the domestic policies he has advocated in the course of the campaign.

It is expected that manuscript for all of the four meetings will be ready by the time the senator leaves here Wednesday but that any points which come to the front during the week will be discussed in extemporaneous additions to what he has prepared.

Wozencraft and Fisher paraded the ground all day long, talking and playing with the little folk. It was a wonderful gathering and a thrilling sight—100 acres of ground just seething with youthful humanity.

POLLING BOOTH IN CITY LIBRARY

The reading room of the city library will be one of the voting places on state election day, one week from tomorrow, the election commissioners announced today. The reading room will be used instead of the old polling booths which formerly stood at the junction of Merrimack and Colburn streets and which interfered seriously with traffic on the latter street.

Arrangements have been made with the library authorities to have the main reading room in the basement of the library turned over to the election authorities on election day. The usual use for daily papers will be kept and cardboard partitions erected between them, thus affording an ideal polling place.

ASK BOTH CANDIDATES TO SUPPORT LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—More than 50 supporters of Senator Harding and Gov. Cox, republican and democratic presidential candidates, last night joined in an open letter to them asking their pledge to work, if elected, for the United States' entry into the League of Nations with whatever revision of the Lodge reservations two-thirds of the next senate may approve.

Asserting that "the approaching national election may be indecisive of the dominant issue of the campaign and leave the vital question of our entry into any league or association of nations still deadlocked in the senate or between the senate and house with decision more hopeless than before," the letter said:

"Believing that now and not after the election, when new partisan alignments, new ambitions and new animosities may make it doubly difficult, is the time to secure the commitments against such a damming situation, we are giving our earnest support to the reasonable and thoroughly practical proposal contained in the question which we now present to you as follows:

"If the election fails to provide the required two-thirds vote in the senate for our entry into a league or association of nations for the preservation of peace upon a basis more satisfactory to you, will you advise and support our entry into the existing League of Nations with the Lodge reservations or with such revision of them as two-thirds of the senate may approve?"

"Whatever may be our individual preference as to the form the settlement of the League of Nations question, or whether it is to be a league or a new association of nations, is not the vital concern in this proposal. An affirmative answer to it would call for no fulfillment until after one side shall have exhausted every reasonable effort to enter the existing League of Nations with mild or merely interpretative reservations, and the other shall have tried every fair expedient to supplant the league with a new and different world organization for the preservation of peace, or to enter it after thorough revision by the adoption of other reservations or amendments."

Four more Lowell voters who expect to be out of town on state election, November 2, sent their absentee voting ballots to the local election commissioners today. Among them is Nellie M. The trio are on their way to California. Karl Fred Erickson sends his ballot from Washington, D. C. Organization Formed To Make Washington Literary Centre

BY HARRY B. HUNT,

N.E.A. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Washington, famous not merely as the capital of the United States but as the hub of America's literary and artistic thought and as an international centre of world art and culture.

That is the aim of a new organization now being formed here which has its first patron no less a literary light than President Woodrow Wilson.

It is expected President Wilson, when he retires from the White House March 4, will devote himself largely to literary pursuits, occupying a place in the forefront of American historians and authors, his interest in and support of the new organization has given it at once an impetus and influence which normally it would have required years to attain.

Literary Centre

The National Pen League and International Literary association, which the president sponsors as first patron, is the conception of Mrs. Florence Stoddard of Washington, former president of the League of American Penwomen. Mrs. Stoddard held that if Washington were to make the most of its opportunities as a literary and artistic centre some means would have to be found of bringing American men as well as women and also the men and women of the other nations represented in Washington, interested in art and letters, into an organization through which their mutual interests might function.

That this broader program struck a popular chord is apparent from the fact that about 150 writers, artists and composers have enrolled as charter members. The international representation already includes, among others,

Senor Juan Riano, Spanish ambassador; Senor Alencar, Brazilian ambassador; Senor Elizalde, minister from Ecuador; and Senor Cespedes, minister from Cuba.

Miss Mabel Boardman, former Red Cross leader and author of "Under the Red Cross Flag," has become an active member.

Field of Work

Boiled down, here is the field of work the organization will undertake to put Washington on the world's art and cultural map:

To foster literary appreciation and understanding of the works of authors, artists and musicians in all countries.

To encourage international interest in the output of such producers.

To secure, through the interchange of ideas, a greater world appreciation of American creative work, more general translations of American literary productions and more notice for American artistic and musical compositions.

To make known the advantages of Washington as a place for study and research work and of inspiration of creative writing, composition and design.

To maintain in the American capital headquarters from which authors, artists and composers may receive information relative to their interests.

To receive and entertain foreign writers and artists visiting this country and to send information of their movements to bodies in other cities, allied with the Washington organization, desiring to offer similar hospitality.

Just how far President Wilson's support of the organization will go, and what active part he may take in its work when he becomes simply "Mr. Wilson, author and ex-president," no one, of course, knows.

GREAT FOOTBALL GAME LOWELL HIGH DEFEATS ON TEXTILE CAMPUS CONCORD HIGH

Despite repeated attempts to make their open play result in tangible scoring, the Textile school pigskin chasers were unable to break a scoreless tie in their game with an eleven representing the class of 1923 of Massachusetts Institute of Technology at the Textile campus in Moody street Saturday afternoon. The Tech visitors had a surprising line that, in the quarterback, their budding tactics bring them over the coveted goal line.

The game was one of the most interesting fought on the Textile campus for some time and a large crowd watched every play. Textile was out to avenge the defeat received from Tech last year and worked with all cylinders clicking but the teams were evenly matched for either to win.

Macher, one of Textile's all-around star athletes, playing fullback, twice attempted field goals but the ball went a few inches shy each time. Technology was most dangerous in the third quarter when Textile kicked off and one of the opposing players captured the ball. In a few minutes the ball was in the neighborhood of Textile's goal and Metcalf, the visitors' fullback, started on a rampage to the posts. However, Macher, Tech's quarterback, got his man on a flying tackle and thereafter the visitors never proved dangerous.

In the first quarter Textile came nearer scoring than at any other time. A series of plunges and a forward pass netting 20 yards brought the locals to territory bordering on Technology's goal. Another forward and five yards' progress brought the visitors' fullback to the 15 yard line, but there the advance ceased and Macher resorted to kicking. The ball went outside the uprights, however, and there was no scoring.

Marble, Brigham, Lombard and Macher played good football for Textile. Metcalf, the Tech star, started for Technology. The lineup and summary:

FOOTBALL NOTES

The following players of the Young Cuts football team are requested to meet for practice this evening at the Triple Ott Park, Boston Road. Captain R. Gray, F. McIlhenny, W. Pearson, G. Lowrey, J. Sheehan, J. McMahon, T. Santos, A. Cohen, T. Connelley, A. Higgs, R. Pearson, E. Rogers, "Billy" Brennan and R. Harrison. The Cuts are out for the 11th amateur championship of the city and will tackle any team of this weight. Answer through this paper or call 37-7-R or 1295.

In its 16 to 7 victory over Concord high at Spalding park, Saturday afternoon, the Lowell high school football team had to be on its toes all the time, especially against open field football during the last two periods. Nine points of Lowell's score were made within about the same number of minutes after the referee's whistle started the game. The first period gave indications of an easy and overwhelming victory for the local team, but the Concord team became stronger as it warmed up in the play.

Lowell presented a much heavier set of players than did the visitors and this may account for much of the battering they received. Concord's lightness was compensated for, however, in a certain quickness in some plays which fooled Lowell and fell. Then in two periods, Concord fought hard for the remainder of the game and in the third period pressed the local eleven dangerously. Time and time again they sent their backs through Lowell's centre for gains, but eventually found the weak spot, as Concord failed to score.

The game ended with the ball in Lowell hands under Concord's goal, and Liston trying hard to push through for another touchdown. Liston, who has been out of the regular games so far this season, received commendation for his display of pep and tenacity as he was expected of him in future games.

Concord became more aggressive and plunged nearer the goal, where a forward failed. Lowell stiffened on the five yard line and got the ball on downs. Normandin sent in for Trull. Then with McAdams and Normandin rushing through centre, a bluff and run through centre by Liston and the second touchdown. Cahill kicked the goal. At this point Concord showed more fight and followed Lowell closely on all plays, holding the line.

In the second half Concord ran back the kick-off to the 10 yard line, then Lowell was penalized five yards for offside. In fast and confusing open field plays, Concord took the ball to the five yard line and Pickard went over for their first touchdown. Mullaney kicking the goal. Spurred on by this score, Concord fought hard for the remainder of the game and in the third period pressed the local eleven dangerously. Time and time again they sent their backs through Lowell's centre for gains, but eventually found the weak spot, as Concord failed to score.

The game ended with the ball in Lowell hands under Concord's goal, and Liston trying hard to push through for another touchdown. Liston, who has been out of the regular games so far this season, received commendation for his display of pep and tenacity as he was expected of him in future games.

virtually agreed upon, Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, announced today. He said a final conference of interested parties would be held tomorrow or Wednesday and added he was confident the agreement would be signed before Carpenter leaves the United States, a week from next Saturday.

The bout probably will be in Madison square garden in January or June, 1921.

Kearns said the match had been virtually assured by a series of conferences held here within the past few days, attended by himself, Francis Descamps, Carpenter's manager, Ted Rickard, the Madison Square Garden promoter, William A. Government's Cotton Ginning Report

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The government's cotton ginning report today showed a total of 5,712,057 bales ginned prior to October 18, and indicated that the sporadic attempts through eht cotton belt to keep gins closed until the price of cotton advanced to higher levels had had little effect. The ginnings this year aggregated 782,953 bales more than the quantity ginned to Oct. 18, last year, when the crop was 704,000 bales smaller than that forecast for this year. On the government's forecast of a crop of 12,123,000 bales this year, the ginning to Oct. 18 appeared to be about 47.1 per cent of the total. This is a higher percentage than was ginned last year to Oct. 18—43.5 per cent—but lower than the average, 48.9, for the last 18 years.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—A firm to strong tone attended the resumption of trading on the stock exchange today. The week's final rally of 10 per cent for call loans and the large deficit in actual reserves reported by clearing house banks were offset by favorable advices from London regarding British labor conditions and a sharp rise in sterling exchange. Oil, rails and utilities were stronger. Sugar, Mexican Petroleum, Houston Oil, Henders, Texas and Pacific, and Laclede Gas gained 1 to 2 points within the first half-hour.

Additional gains were made in the first hour by oils, especially Mexican Petroleum, Pan-American Petroleum, Shell Trading, California Petroleum and Houston Oil. These latter gained 2 to almost 5 points over last week's final prices. Rails were dull but utilities and tobacco strengthened with some of the minor specialties. The market in the second hour was quiet when United Fruit fell 6 points and Coca Cola 3 1/2, the latter losing grounds on adverse dividend rumors. Regular securities set in before noon when steel developed activity. An opening rate of 8 per cent for call money indicated a possible recurrence of last Friday's hurry.

Independents, particularly Lackawanna and Republic, scored further gains at mid-day. Coppers were strong with buying of Utah, American Smelting and U. S. Smelting.

The only railway issue to show any marked change was New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, which rose 4 points. Sharp reactions occurred in the last hour when call money rose 10 to 12 per cent. United Fruit showed a loss of 7 points and Coca Cola 5, with leaders 1 to 2 points under their best. The closing was irregular.

ON PEACE RESOLUTION

Supreme Court Refuses to Order Promulgation—Other Decisions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The supreme court today refused to grant the request of Harry S. McCarthey, a Chicago lawyer, that it assume original jurisdiction over his suit brought in the District of Columbia courts to compel the Secretary of State to promulgate the peace resolution passed last May by congress. President Wilson vetoed the resolution and it was passed over his veto.

On Eastland Disaster

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Decrees of lower courts limiting the liability incurred by the operators of the steamship Eastland, which sank at a dock at Chicago in 1915, will stand as a result of the refusal of the supreme court today to review cases brought in behalf of dependents of several victims.

Refuses to Review Decrees

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The supreme court today refused to review decrees of New York courts holding that an inheritance tax may not be deducted from incomes upon which a federal tax must be paid. The petition, Elizabeth S. Smith, brought suit when internal revenue officials disallowed a deduction of $200,000 paid to the state in 1913 as a tax on the transfer of her father's estate.

tion building by the regular entering staff which will be employed at the hospital.

At the dinner were Mayor Perry D. Thompson, Dr. Smith, Dr. William J. Gallivan, director of the division of tuberculosis of the state department of health; Dr. John H. Nichols, superintendent of the Tewksbury State Infirmary; Dr. Pierre Brunelle, chairman of the board of health; Dr. Joseph F. Carroll and John E. Drury, members of the board of health; Commissioner George E. Donnelly, Commissioner John P. Salmon, Dr. Michael A. Tighe, city physician; Dr. John N. Drury, head of the tuberculosis clinic of the board of health; Dr. Charles H. Simpson, state medical officer for this district; Francis J. O'Hare, agent of the board of health; Dr. J. J. O'Hare, the Lowell Anti-Tuberculosis society; City Auditor J. Joseph Hennessy, Chief Edward F. Samuels of the fire department; Dr. James J. Rodger, secretary; and Dr. Edward O. Tabor and Dr. Joseph P. Kearney, representing the North Middlesex Medical association.

Following the luncheon Mayor Thompson told of his pleasure in having the guests of the afternoon inspect the hospital and reviewed briefly the steps which were taken in building the plant. Other speakers were Dr. Nichols and Dr. Simpson.

The tuberculosis hospital was built by the city at the order of the state board of health. The site, consisting of 50.23 acres of land, elevated and commanding a view of the entire surrounding country, is situated between Yarmouth avenue and West Meadow road. It was bought from Thomas Varnum in the latter part of 1913. Building began in 1916 and was completed in the early part of 1918. The total cost of the plant to date, exclusive of its connecting sewer, was $296,424.32. The sewer cost in the neighborhood of $100,000 additional.

The hospital consists of five buildings: an administration building and dining room, boiler house and laundry, and three cottages or pavilions. Each cottage has accommodations for 24 patients and is so constructed that light enters from every side. Each building is connected with the others by tunnels and the equipment of the plant is modern and that can be obtained.

The general contract for the building was Frederick H. May and the architect Henry L. Bourke.

RIOTING NEAR BELFAST, IRE.

Outbreak Follows Display of Sinn Fein Flags in Honor of MacSwiney

BELFAST, Oct. 25.—A display of Sinn Fein flags in honor of Lord Mayor MacSwiney resulted in rioting today in the Ballymacarratt suburb of Belfast. One man was shot and killed.

MacSwiney's Last Moments

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The death of Lord Mayor MacSwiney was the first of an Irish hunger strike to occur in England. Just a week ago, on the occasion of the death of Michael Fitzgerald, one of the eleven hunger strikers in the Cork jail, the lord mayor telegraphed: "We do not know who is to be the second to step in the path of immortality, but by offering unreserved sacrifices, we are safeguarding the destinies of Ireland."

It became evident several days ago that MacSwiney was nearing the end. Up to that time, he had steadfastly refused nourishment, although tempting dishes were brought to his cell daily by the authorities. Both the authorities and the lord mayor's relatives emphatically stated they had not administered food to the prisoner, despite rumors to the contrary.

All Had Dead for Days

At last, after the mayor, who had reached the stage of extreme emaciation, had been periodically deluged with the officials began to give him liquid nourishment. This came too late, however, as the mayor had been all but dead for many days.

As the end approached, the authorities restricted the visit of his relatives, declaring this was in the interest of the prisoner, who was said to be too weak for excitement. Last night a last turn. They found him lying motionless, with his eyes open, but unconscious.

Father Dominic whispered a few prayers, but the dying man did not acknowledge him. The priest then elicited the prayers for the dying, while Sean, the nurses, and the four doctors, including the expert adviser of the home office, stood by.

Prayers for the Dying

Father Dominic and Sean then retired to allow the doctors to do what they could for the lord mayor. One of the ladies in the strychnine. Father Dominic and Sean in the morning were repeating rosaries in Gaelic in another part of the ward.

The physicians shortly notified them that the lord mayor was beyond human aid, and that he had died. The lord mayor was about to die, and the lord mayor was about to die, and the lord mayor was about to die.

The news of his death spread rapidly through the United Kingdom and preparations for a great funeral were immediately begun by the Sinn Fein. The plans, contingent upon government approval, include the body being taken to St. George's cathedral in London and the Mansion House in Dublin, and a series of services en route from Dublin to Cork. Similar plans were made some time ago when the body of Michael Collins was taken to Cork.

The funeral was held in the morning at St. George's cathedral in London. The body was taken to Cork and the funeral was held in the morning at St. George's cathedral in London.

RIGHT TO TAKE PART IN POLITICS

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 25.—Canadian workers will look to the government for a guarantee of their rights to participate in politics. Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, declared in a statement here today. He characterized the recent order by the president of the Canadian National Railway forbidding employees from taking part in politics or holding public office as a destruction of the principles of democratic government.

This order by the National Railway is a development which cannot go unchallenged," said President Moore. He indicated that organized labor would take immediate steps to bring the matter before dominion officials.

Esperanto was not Gloucester's fastest schooner; that was conceded but was nearly as good as the best and in a good blow could beat any down east two stiffer aloft. Of that the fishing folk were confident. This was the effect of some of the fawells in which Mayor Charles D. Brown appeared for the city and members of every craft connected with the fishing industry, handling fishermen, sailors, strippers, packers and cold storage men added their word or two. Capt. Welch had received before sailing a telegram from Senator Harding, republican candidate for president, wishing him success.

Replying, he said: "We expect to bring Old Glory over the finish line in the lead, but if we do not our Canadian cousins will know they have been in a race."

The Esperanto carried her four lower sails, mainsail and main topsail, fore sail and foretop sail, when she cast off from the wharf and free of the tug, Captain Welch sent up his light sails, and the schooner sailed in a full sail canvas, which, in fact, was the worst she had in her. In fact it was the worst she had in her. In fact it was the worst she had in her.

All sail was set as the schooner slipped out of view around Eastern point and with a fair start, it was expected her skipper would bring her to anchor at Halifax by Wednesday. For the first time, the schooner was seen in the harbor.

democratic management. The League of Nations issue, however, it was said, would continue to be the chief appeal.

The governor's West Virginia effort today was the second in the state, and it showed his speech last Saturday in New York where he stressed business arguments for the league and, for the first time, said that he expected to compromise on reservations.

Cox Answers Propaganda

BECKLEY, W. Va., Oct. 25.—Labor questions and the League of Nations were principal subjects of Governor Cox of Ohio in his campaign through the West Virginia coal mining regions today. He stressed arguments that the league was pledged to American soldiers and their mothers to prevent future wars.

To audiences of miners, railroad and other workers, he told of humanitarian and progressive legislation adopted in Ohio.

Charges were made in hostile newspapers and in handbills circulated among the governor's crowds today that he had ordered militia into labor controversies at Akron and Canton, O. They called attention to his statement, that he had never thrown a soldier's uniform into, nor had a shot been fired in any Ohio industrial controversy while he was governor. Today's attack was met by the governor with the statement that his record was public and he would stand upon it.

HARDING'S STATEMENT

Expresses Desire to Lead Nation Out of "Jungle of Mismanagement"

MARION, O., Oct. 25.—Accusing the democratic party of failure to place its policies clearly before the people, Senator Harding asked in a statement last night that his opponents answer numerous charges he has brought against them during the campaign.

At the same time he stated his own position on various issues and declared that in his public utterances he has proposed a definite constructive policy "to bring our people out of the jungle of mismanagement."

Extravagance, unpreparedness for both war and peace, over-centralization of power, unnecessary taxation, unproductive inefficiency, were among the accusations which Mr. Harding said had not yet been answered by the democrats. As to the league he said he was wholly against the democratic program, but believed there was "full expectation of becoming a member of a wise association of nations."

any way modifying the effectiveness of the league. "Article X," he said, "is scarcely more than a moral background to the covenant. It is not considered so important by Europeans as by Americans."

"There is really no sanction, or penalty, in this article. All penalties provided for in the covenant in order to make the league's action effective, are in other articles."

M. Bourgeois' statement was made in the course of an interview arranged for American correspondents by M. Comert, principal press official of the League of Nations. After M. Bourgeois had withdrawn, the question was raised among the American correspondents as to the effect of M. Bourgeois' statement on the presidential election in the United States. It was thereupon mutually agreed to withhold the statement until he could pass upon it as being issued with the fullest authority and approval.

M. Bourgeois was seen today by M. Comert, who then told the correspondents he had explained to the president the importance of the remarks, and requested him to say whether he intended them to be published in the United States. M. Bourgeois replied, "M. Comert, that he understood the importance of what he was saying and was quite willing the interview should be printed."

M. Bourgeois, continuing the conversation of last night, and replying to questions regarding the prospect of revision of the covenant by the general assembly of the League of Nations which meets at Geneva Nov. 15, said:

"The council of the league, being guardian of the covenant, are of course, unable to go before the assembly with any project that alters the covenant. But individual states which are members of the league, may, of course, propose such amendments as they see fit."

GEORGE MARTIN ARRESTED

After an exciting chase through Davidson and Wall streets this noon, George Martin of Gotham street was taken into custody by inspectors Walsh and Dwyer and Police Chauffeur Fred Carter and hooked at the police station on a complaint of improper conduct. At noon a call was sent in to the station that there was a man in the vicinity of Davidson street behaving improperly with his right arm raised in the air. Inspectors Prescott, Walsh and Driver Cotter were sent to the scene. Walsh and Cotter, armed with high powered rifles, opposite sides of the defendant, but dashed in the direction of Wall street with all three men after him. He sought refuge beneath an old platform near one of the mills. Because Martin refused to come out, Chauffeur Cotter threatened to shoot him. Then he came out.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE IS DISMISSED

A charge of manslaughter against Andrew D. Moynihan was dismissed in police court this morning by Judge R. H. Wright. Moynihan was the driver of the automobile, owned by Richard M. Crosson of 69 Temple street which struck Francis Aubrey, six years old, of 58 Lyon street, about 3.15 o'clock on the afternoon of Sept. 18 on the N. Y. N. H. & H. railroad bridge in Lincoln st., inflicting injuries which later resulted in the child's death at St. John's hospital.

The inquest was held by John J. Plockman, senior special justice of the Lowell court and was attended by Arthur J. Hardy, Esq., Inspector of the state highway commission. The report stated that the accident was not due to criminal negligence on the part of Moynihan or any other person or persons.

WANT U. S. WARSHIPS SENT TO BLACK SEA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Secretary Daniels has been asked by the Armenian-American society to send warships to the Black sea to land marines at Batumi to keep on the railroad line from that port to Erzurum. He has promised to take the matter up with Secretary Colby.

A resolution requesting the president to send marines to Batumi was adopted by the senate last May 13. It was offered by Senator Harding in behalf of the foreign relations committee. Since that time a number of destroyers have been ordered to the Black sea but none of them carries marines.

was for the accommodation of the girls of the Rogers Hall school.

Miss Parsons, principal of the school, when queried in reference to the matter, said she "would be very sorry to see the tennis park that cost so much torn up and disfigured by the construction of a tennis court." "If there is a demand for a tennis court," she said, "why not locate it out at Shedd park where an area of 55 acres of land donated for park purposes awaits development and is largely still in its natural wilderness."

"So far from favoring the tennis court in front of this school and the Moody, I feel that such an attraction would be injurious to the work of both schools. We have a tennis court on the school grounds that is used by our students during recreation hours, but in the time set apart for study we do not want any cause of distraction such as tennis court at our doors and undoubtedly bring."

It is understood that residents in the vicinity of the park have not a strong protest to the park board against the proposed tennis court. One of these said to a Sun representative today: "I wonder what has changed the policy of the park board in regard to this park as during the past two years even boys were forbidden to walk or sit on the grass."

"To turn it into a public playground would destroy the park and damage property in the vicinity."

The park board, it seems, had better place the tennis court where it belongs and where it will injure nobody out at Shedd park.

Similar social times will be held Saturday night and Sunday afternoon.

LONG FLOPS TO HARDING

FRAMINGHAM, Oct. 25.—Hilchard H. Long, former candidate for governor of the democratic ticket, but defeated for the nomination, has come out in a declaration in favor of Senator Harding's election. He says Wilson has demoralized the democratic party. Mr. Long attended the democratic convention in St. Francisco and helped to nominate Governor Cox.

Tanlac Overcame Her Troubles Four Years Ago and She Is Still in Perfect Health—Suffered Fifteen Years

Here is another instance of the remarkable reconstructive powers of Tanlac. Mrs. Odella Tallifer, a highly esteemed resident of 528 Chicopee street, Willimansett, Mass., declares that only a few bottles of the medicine has not only relieved her of a case of stomach trouble of fifteen years' standing, but that her weight has been increased twenty-one pounds, besides.

But let Mrs. Tallifer tell her own story. Here is what she says: "It was four years ago that Tanlac restored my health and I haven't taken any medicine since but have been feeling simply fine ever since."

"I had suffered for fifteen years and had gotten so bad that honestly I don't believe I would be here today if it hadn't been for Tanlac. My stomach hurt all the time and it just seemed that nothing I ate would digest properly. I had to give up eating all the things I liked best and I fell off so much in weight that it frightened me. I would float up dreadfully with gas and there was such a severe burning in my stomach I could hardly bear it. There were sharp pains all around my heart and at times I had sinking spells when I felt so smothered and choked up I thought I was fainting."

"I suffered also from catarrh and the poison from my head and throat made my stomach worse. I had to live entirely on soup and crackers and toast and light things like that and I fell off until I weighed only one hundred and nine pounds and was so weak I could hardly get about the house. My liver was sluggish, my tongue was coated and my complexion became pale and sallow. I was badly constipated and often had splitting headaches and sudden attacks of dizziness. I was so nervous that I lost sleep night after night and became so completely worn out that I felt that I might break down at any time."

"But my husband brought me home some Tanlac one day and I took a turn for the better in the very first bottle. I began to feel hungry and what I ate didn't hurt me. The catarrh began to disappear and my breathing became free and easy. I took four bottles in all and by the time I finished taking them every symptom of my old troubles left me, and I remember I felt so happy at the time that it seemed as if I was starting life all over again. I was in perfect health and had gained twenty-one pounds in weight. Since then I haven't been troubled in any way and have felt as strong and well as I ever did in my whole life. This is what Tanlac has done for me and I don't believe anyone can make a mistake by taking it."

Tanlac is sold in Lowell by Greens Drug store, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

GOMPERS URGES LEAGUE

Declares Covenant Gives Labor Bill of Rights—Document of Humanity

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Replying to a question from William Michaels, a Tulsa, Ok., labor leader, as to what effect the League of Nations, as advocated by the American Federation of Labor, would have upon the laboring people of this country, Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, last night wired that the labor provisions of the covenant constituted labor's "bill of rights," and "is a document for humanity."

After pointing out that the federation, at its 1919 convention, had unanimously voted an endorsement of the league, Mr. Gompers urged American workers should support the league because its provisions would confer "lasting benefits upon the wage-earners of the world," and "is a great international effort to forward those measures that make for the improvement of the standards and health of the people in all signatory nations."

Mr. Gompers' statement was supplemented by a statement from the federation's non-partisan political campaign committee, further expressing what was termed the viewpoint of labor. All opponents of the league, the statement declared, could be classed either as "extreme reactionaries or extreme radicals." The former, it said, opposed the league because the covenant provides "the best check on reaction," while radicals municipal council and school committee.

The Kimball Co. plans were submitted to the council and to the school committee and were approved by both bodies. Mr. Regan says, also, that approval had been given the Kimball Co.'s obligation, as far as plans and specifications were concerned, ceased, he contends. Mr. Hennessy takes the opposite view of the matter.

The high school building commission, Mr. Regan says, voted in formal session that extra work should be done necessitating the redrawing of plans and that the city auditor was given a certified copy of a vote of the commission approving the Kimball Co.'s bill for such extra work. The city auditor approved the bill after he had obtained a release from the Kimball Co. and this release is now deposited in the law department office.

Mr. Regan is confident that the Kimball Co. will be sustained by the courts if litigation is begun and for that reason believes that the bill should be paid without further delay.

WOOL SORTERS OPPOSE WAGE REDUCTION

At a special meeting of the Wool Sorters' union comprising employees of the Silesia and Moore mills in North Chelmsford, held Saturday evening, a vigorous protest was entered against the reduction in wages in both plants, which goes into effect today. The reduction at the Moore mill is 15 per cent, while that in the Silesia could not be lessened.

The meeting was largely attended, and President John Butterworth was in the chair. The wage question was discussed at length and the members of the union were unanimous in protesting against the action of the two mills and it was voted to place the matter before the international office.

At the close of the meeting the following statement was given out for publication:

"The wool sorters are not pleased at the wage reductions and they got together to see if something could not be done to prevent their going into effect. National Officers Francis J. Gorman, president, of Providence, R. I., and Secretary George S. Drier of Lawrence were notified of our action and will be here to take the matter up with the mill management either Monday or Tuesday. The sentiment of protesting the reduction was unanimous and though we don't propose to do anything drastic we will be guided by our international officers in whatever we do."

DOSE OF BUCKSHOT FOR THIS FELLOW

A man who seems to take great pleasure in playing the part of a phony by spoofing around houses at night, tapping on window panes, rapping on doors, and so on, is at large in the Highlands district despite all efforts being made to catch him. Women have been held up by this same fellow. It is said, while he attempted to kiss them.

One report telephoned into the police station was to the effect that about 5:30 o'clock yesterday, near the corner of Parker and Wilder streets, a man jumped out from a clump of bushes and grabbed a young woman by the arms. Her screams attracted a man who scared her assailant away. The latter is described as being tall and thin, with moustache and wearing glasses. Other descriptions annex the fact that he is very athletic and is able to hurdle fences and make a getaway without any difficulty.

Citizens of the Highlands are said to be laying for him with shotguns loaded with buckshot.

PARTY CHAIRMEN TALK

White Says Cox Sure of 256

Electoral Votes—Hays Predicts G. O. P. Victory

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—George White, chairman of the democratic national committee in a statement here last night forecasting the result of the election predicted that Cox and Roosevelt will have 256 electoral votes, "as good as counted," the republicans 164 and that the democrats will win a majority of the remaining 111.

"I have been making a detailed investigation of conditions in the various states," the statement said. "For two days I have been receiving revised reports. It is now possible to give to the public a statement of our prospects in the election. I realize that the customary act of a national chairman at this stage of the night is to claim everything in the hope that he can persuade wavering voters to line up with his side. Mr. Hays, my antagonist, has given me several public sessions in this absolute practice lately by claiming everything except a part of the southern states.

"Nevertheless, I am prepared to make a fair and honest statement of the situation. I shall reserve the names of the states we will carry because the public would not expect me to acquit the republican managers with our campaign plans. But I do say this:

"Governor Cox and Mr. Roosevelt will have 222 electoral votes east of the Mississippi river and 24 west of the Missouri river, a total of 256 as good as counted. This is within 10 of the number necessary to elect. The republicans have 164 which I regard as good as counted for them. This leaves 111 votes in contest. In the decided swing now in progress toward the democratic ticket we will carry the majority of this 111, a very comfortable victory indeed.

"This is my prediction. I am confident it will be borne out election day."

Chairman Hays' Message

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Will Hays, chairman of the republican national committee, yesterday sent a message to all state chairmen declaring: "We have won the closing days of the campaign with an assurance of victory as certain as the righteousness of our cause."

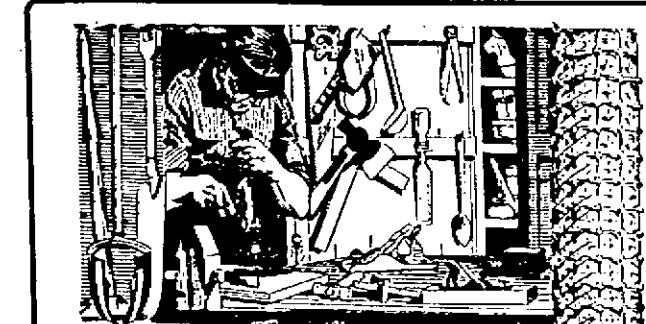

"Our campaign has been for a revival of loyalty and patriotism in this country," the message added. "It has had for a main purpose the re-establishment of an economical, efficient, constitutional, business administration of the government at Washington.

"We fight for America first. This means not only the preservation of our constitutional independence against super-government abroad; this means not only the protection of constitutional functions against White House theft of authority at home. 'America first,' equally means that the score of domestic problems close to every American household, and which have been shamefully neglected, must and shall have the constructive and progressive attention absolutely necessary if 'America first' is to last; and it means that while doing this we will certainly preserve our great place in the world of today and tomorrow with the same unselfish conduct that has made America the synonym for justice and righteousness the world over.

"We fight for the faith of our fathers of the republic and for the perpetual freedom of the sons and daughters of America. I earnestly urge and I know that the last days of the campaign will be kept on the same high plane. This election far transcends any partisan affair. Please read that no republican meeting is opened without singing 'America.' There will be a new glory to the Stars and Stripes on the morning of Nov. 3."

ITALIAN ENTRY IN BIG BALLOON RACE LANDS

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Oct. 25.—The balloon Triomphale V.I. Italian entry in the international contest for the Bennett trophy, landed here today. Piloted by Major H. Madori, with Lieut. A. Pirazzoli as aide, the ship left Birmingham, Ala., at 4:32 Saturday afternoon.

For the greater part of the journey north, the trip was made at an altitude of 12,000 feet and part of the time through a severe storm with the temperature below zero.

The course took the big bag through Tennessee, Indiana and Ohio, and into Michigan. Lake St. Clair was sighted last night and with only one ton of ballast left, the crew decided to land.

Joint Heirs' and Owner's Sale

AN UNRESTRICTED AND UNPROTECTED PUBLIC SALE OF THE JOHANNA WALSH ESTATE ON LAWRENCE STREET AT THE CORNER OF WATSON STREET AND COMPRISING THE SIX APARTMENT BLOCK NUMBERED 523-526 LAWRENCE STREET AND THE WALSH HOMESTEAD NUMBERED 5 WATSON STREET IS HEREWIT ANNOUNCED.

We hereby pledge to the highest bona fide bidders who comply with the Terms and Conditions of Sale the two herewith described properties. The sale to take place upon or near the respective premises regardless of any condition of the weather on Friday the twenty-ninth day of October nineteen hundred and twenty commencing VERY PROMPTLY at four o'clock in the afternoon.

LOT ONE—The modern renting and investment property numbered 523 and 525 and 527 and 529 Lawrence Street at the corner of Watson Street comprising six excellent apartments (flats), two on a floor, and these apartments each include six rooms and a pantry and a toilet room and a coal closet and an ash chute and a clothes reel upon the one floor and also a cellar and more rooming space. The property is in a very desirable location and will be rarely found—there has been but one change of tenants in the property within ten years. Four of the apartments bring $15 each per month—and this without a miss; and the two upper flats bring $15 each per month. For every month; this means a gross income from this property of $34 every month—as sure as the month comes about. The property is not only a good-looking one and a very substantial one, but its location is beyond criticism and its municipal conveniences are quite complete—city water, a modern paved street, and a good trolley car service, and handy accessibility to several of the most important industries of the city; and it is also within a seven-teen or eighteen minutes' actual and comfortable walk of Merrimack Square. Much more can be said, but a careful and thorough personal investigation of the property will best prove the value of this investment. With Lot One are some 600 square feet of land with a frontage of 91 ft. on Lawrence Street and 52 ft. on Watson Street and 12 ft. on the 12 ft. passageway leading from Lawrence Street to Whipple Street.

LOT TWO—The Walsh homestead at No 5 Watson Street, comprising an excellent home property—including thirteen rooms on its three floors and also a bath room and a pantry and a cellar and is wired for electric lighting (no fixtures). The homestead has always been occupied by some member of the Walsh family and as a property it is of equally substantial character and desirable location and accessibility as is its companion property—and the two properties never have had but the one ownership. With Lot Two are some 2500 square feet of land with a frontage of 32 ft. on Watson Street and 33 ft. on the passageway in the rear.

TO SUMMARIZE—The two properties are both in excellent condition—nevertheless like all renting properties there are things here and there that constantly need attention but from any standpoint of fair consideration they are certainly first-class realties of their type. They have the advantage of an east and south exposure with Lawrence Street at the front and Watson Street at the south side and a 12 ft. passageway upon the north side leading through four lawns to Whipple street. The location is emphasized because it is about midway between the junction of Wamsuit and Rogers Streets with Lawrence Street and the Junction of Andrews and Agawam Streets with Lawrence Street, and is just at the point of the greatest width of Lawrence Street. The premises will be open for inspection after ten o'clock a. m. the day of sale—and before this time by an arrangement made at No 5 Watson Street.

The purchaser of Lot One must deposit with or satisfactorily secure to the Auctioneers $1000 just as soon as the property is struck off; and the purchaser of Lot Two must deposit with or satisfactorily secure to the Auctioneers $500 just as soon as the property is struck off; undoubtedly from fifty to one hundred per cent of the purchase money can be secured upon mortgage, if either purchaser so desires.

CURIOUS FIRE IN HOSE

Flames Burst Out While

Water is Being Pumped Through—Experts Called

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—The phenomenon of flame bursting from a fire hose through which water was passing when there was no fire nearby, has mystified the Boston fire department. Nothing like it ever occurred before, according to Fire Commissioner John R. Murphy who said it was "the most interesting thing that has happened in the fire business in a long time."

The hose, described as two and one-half inch, rubber lined, double cotton jacket hose, was a standard make, its composition well within the specifications of the department and of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. The fire developed during a test of big motor pumping engines. It bursted holes through the hose in two places, each near the engine connection, flame breaking through on the outside. First opinion of experts was that "free air" had been left between layers of the hose as a residue of vulcanization, but analysis showed a minus quantity as compared with specification allowances. "The possibility of a sudden developed by friction through elongation and subsequent contraction of the hose under an enormous pressure of the motor pumps was suggested by the commissioner."

The burned sections have been sent by the fire commissioner to Prof. August H. Gill of Massachusetts Institute of Technology for examination.
